TRIAL OF CARNES TO BE DELAYED PENDING AUDIT

Solicitor Boykin To Get Every Indictment Possible Before Taking Action, He Announces.

SEEKS TO AVOID LONG COURT FIGHT

Ex-Treasurer Now Faces Seventeen Indictments; No Increase in Bond Asked by State.

With a total of 17 indictments already against him, 14 of which were returned by the grand jury Friday, Clinton S. Carnes will not face the bar of justice for his long series of raids on the treasury of the Baptist home mission board until the audit of his accounts has been completed in every detail and the grand jury has passed on all evidence against him.

This was made known definitely Friday afternoon by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, who asked for and obtained the fourteen additional indictments against Carnes, which cover peculations as far back as 1925 and accuse the now jailed ex-treasurer of pilfering stocks and bonds valued at several hundred thousand dollars.

"We are not going to try Carnes until I have obtained every possible indictment against him," the solicitor-general said. "We want to eliminate a long and drawn out court battle and believe that the matter will best be disposed of after all the indictments are returned."

Bond Not Raised.

Mr. Boykin made no effort to have Carnes' bond increased beyond the $150,000 set on the three indictments originally obtained. The solicitor said he did not feel that it was necessary inasmuch as Carnes has not made the original bond.

"There are going to be more charges against this man," Mr. Boykin said. "The audit still is far from complete. Just how many indictments there will be no one can say at present, but I do not think that Carnes will even attempt to make the bond already set and there is no necessity for hiking it. If he does make the bond as set it will be easy enough to add to it on the additional indictments we are certain to obtain. The public need have no fear of us losing Carnes now that we have him. He is in for a good long stay—that stay will be just as long as I can legally make it."

Friday's indictments against Carnes cover transactions dating from May 11, 1925, up to a few days before his hurried departure from Atlanta on August 15 of this year. All charge embezzlement.

New Indictments.

Following is a list of the indictments returned Friday:

April 16, 1928—Embezzlement of Republic of Peru bonds of the value of $5,000.

July 23, 1926—Embezzlement of Bell Telephone of Canada bonds, valued at $20,000.

April 16, 1928—Embezzlement of city of Cordoba bonds valued at $5,000.

June 17, 1928—Embezzlement of Kingdom of Denmark bonds valued at $18,000.

Publication of a list of all of Carnes' assets which was expected today simultaneous with a report to the DeKalb superior court from Thomas Howell Scott and Leon O'Neal, receiver for the Carnes holdings, must be delayed for several days, Mr. Scott said Friday. The receiver announced that he would appear before the court this morning and ask for a short extension of time in order that he may submit a full and Zeppelin Attains Speed of 80 Miles On Voyage to U. S.

ALTITUDE GIVEN AS 1,400 FEET

Excellent Flying Weather Is Recorded in Path of First Passenger Carrying Airship.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, October 13.—(Saturday.)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, making the first commercial trans-Atlantic air crossing, this morning was pushing toward her goal at Lakehurst, N. J., on an apparently steady course which had carried her far past the Azores.

For the first 30 hours of her flight from Friedrichshafen, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the world's largest airship, had turned its nose south to avoid storm areas. This deviation from the expected course had added hundreds of miles to the air distance to his goal.

From the Azores came a report that the dirigible was already 176 miles west by south of Horta at 2 p. m., eastern standard time. Earlier it had been thought that it might be sighted there in the late afternoon, but the great ship, after leaving Madeira had apparently taken a straight course for Bermuda.

Reaches Bermuda Today.

The Radio Marine corporation in New York reported interception of an unsigned message which said "Heading straight for Bermuda. If weather continues good we expect to arrive Sunday noon."

If the report from the Azores was correct, it may mean that Dr. Eckener expects to berth his airship in the hangar awaiting her at Lakehurst by noon on Sunday. The Azores are 2,056 miles from Bermuda and the latter is 821 miles from New York. If the dirigible maintains an average speed of 60 miles an hour it might be expected at the Bermudas by 8 p. m., eastern standard time, today (Saturday) and at Lakehurst about 14 hours later.

The uncertainties of air speed are multiplied in the case of dirigibles, however. During part of her early flight the Graf Zeppelin had made only 50 miles an hour and the unsigned message intercepted by the Radio Marine corporation said that her speed was then 85 miles an hour. An even greater variation is possible, depending upon the strength and direction of winds encountered.

Weather Is Fine.

During the hours when the Zeppelin was carefully picking its way to avoid the storm areas over southwestern Europe and its adjacent seas it had been frequently sighted and reported both by land stations and by steamships. These reports became more scattering with the fall of night and with her continued progress over the open sea.

The dirigible had, however, apparently reached a point from which she could communicate by radio with either the United States or Europe, at least intermittently.

The Radio Marine corporation reported that the following message, apparently from the Graf Zeppelin, was intercepted by the Chatham, Mass., station of the corporation at 6:10 p. m. (eastern standard).

"Weather is warm and summer like. Heading straight for Bermuda. If weather continues good, we expect to arrive Sunday noon. Speed 85 miles per hour. Bag mail dropped over Funchal, Madeira."

G. O. P. IS BANKING ON HOOVER BOSTON SPEECH FOR VOTES

With Massachusetts Doubtful, Candidate Will Make Strong Bid for Support.

Washington, October 12.—(AP)—Spending a second day in the quiet of his study, Herbert Hoover today neared the end of his work upon the speech on the tariff and foreign trade which he is to deliver Monday night in Boston.

The republican presidential candidate spent but little time in his personal headquarters on Massachusetts avenue, returning to his home at noon to pass the remainder of the day in grinding out the address in which he will launch his second offensive upon the industrial east.

With Massachusetts described as one of the pivotal states in the election, the nominee probably will make his appeal for the bay state electoral vote one of the strongest utterances he yet has made in the campaign. At the time of its delivery the final showdown will be but a scant three weeks away and Massachusetts leaders are placing much dependence in the power of the nominee to corral votes. Meanwhile, they are building up a strong organization in the state and are laying their plans carefully for a powerful drive during the final days of the campaign.

Robert S. Weeks, chairman of the arrangements committee for the Boston meeting, has reported to the Hoover headquarters that there already are 30,000 requests for tickets for the meeting Monday night. The seating capacity of the arena, where the candidate will speak, is only 9,000 and plans are being made for setting up a battery of amplifiers which will make the address audible to other thousands they expect to congregate about the vicinity of the building.

The only caller seen by the nominee today was Representative Deith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts, who brought a report of the activities of women in that state and gave her views of the political situation there.

Mrs. Rogers said after her talk with Hoover that while a depression in the textile industry in her state would have some effect upon the vote there, the people generally were coming to an understanding of the aid that the republican candidate had given the industry through various economic and trade surveys made under his leadership as secretary of commerce.

$150,000 CHURCH ADDITION PLANNED

First Presbyterian To Complete Huge Tower and To Erect Modern Sunday School Plant.

Plans for enlargement of the First Presbyterian church with addition of a three-story modern Sunday school plant and completion of the huge church tower, at an expenditure of not less than $150,000 for construction costs, were made public Friday. The building program will be in charge of Dr. J. Sprole Lyons, pastor of the church, and Frank M. Inman.

The Sunday school building will be erected on the present site of the manse, behind the church, which is on the corner of Peachtree and Sixteenth streets. On the first of the three floors it is planned to provide for the Berean Bible class, dining room, kitchen and storage rooms, in the north wing, and class rooms for the cradle roll and beginners' departments, mothers' class and nurses' class room will be located in the south wing.

According to the plans worked out by the architect, A. Ten Eyck Brown, the second floor will provide space for the young people's department, the primary department, choir room, secretary's office and pastor's study. The third floor will be devoted to the senior and junior departments.

It is planned to raise the large sum required for construction work in a five-day campaign, beginning October 22. The First Presbyterian church represents one of the most prominent congregations in the city, and has been under the leadership of Dr. Lyons for many years. On Sunday the pastor will preach a special sermon, in which he will stress the urgent need to provide larger quarters for the rapidly growing Sunday school classes. A get-together meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock Friday night, October 19, in the chapel.

The committee appointed by the congregation to direct this work consists of Frank M. Inman, chairman; Phillip Weltner, secretary; W. T. Perkerson, treasurer; Paul L. Fleming, H. B. Thompson, T. C. Law, C. R. Winship, Aubrey Milam, George J. Yundt, Robert G. Lose, Dr. W. S. Elkin and Dr. J. Sprole Lyons. The following subcommittees have been appointed by

FRENCH U-BOAT IS ON BOTTOM WITH 43 MEN

Officials of Marine Hear of Accident Nine Days After Biggest Sub Is Rammed by Ship.

LACK OF NEWS CAUSED NO FEAR

Failure To Notify Country Brings Consternation; Short Note Tells of Deaths.

Paris, October 12.—(AP)—The submarine Ondine, which was to have been the newest unit of the strongest arm of the French navy, is at the bottom of the ocean and all her crew of three officers and 40 men are dead.

The ministry of marine learned tonight that the tragedy occurred about midnight October 3, when the submarine was rammed off Oporto by the Greek cargo carrier, Aikaterini M. Gouldandris. The advices came in brief dispatches from the French consul at Rotterdam.

Delay in Report.

The ministry was totally at a loss to explain why the captain of the Greek steamer waited until today to report the accident. They were dumfounded too by the fact that he abandoned a search for survivors or wreckage within two hours after his steamer hit the Ondine.

By the captain's own admission, the night was clear and the sea was fairly calm.

The ministry was prepared to hear bad news respecting the Ondine because she was three days overdue at her destination, which was Bizerta, the seaport of Tunis on the north coast of Africa. She was heading there on a trial trip which started at Cherbourg on October 1.

Official communiques of the past three days had expressed optimism because of the known ability of the Ondine's commander. It was assumed, however, that a breakdown in machinery had delayed the boat and also prevented her from communicating with shore stations.

Nine Day's Delay.

The naval officials were not at all prepared to learn that nine days had elapsed before report was made of the fate of the vessel. They were astounded at the conduct of the Greek captain in this respect and they freely criticized him for abandoning search for the 43 members of the crew after what was considered only a cursory effort to find them.

This, together with the subsequent silence of the Greek commander, ap-

ESCAPED FEDERAL CONVICT CAUGHT

Basil Banghart, Who Figured in Sensational Prison Break in 1927, Held in Pennsylvania.

Basil Banghart, who with two other convicts escaped from the federal penitentiary in January, 1927, was captured at Everett, Pa., Wednesday, according to advice received Thursday by Deputy Warden Aderholt. Little additional information could be obtained from prison officials Thursday night and it is not known whether Banghart is being held in Pennsylvania on charges there or will be sent here at once. With his capture all three fugitives are now back in the hands of the law.

Banghart figured in one of the most sensational breaks for freedom in the history of the Atlanta prison when he, Albert Rosenberg, and Fred McGoldrick sawed through a steel bar in a cell block window, jumped to the ground and dashed across a brilliantly illuminated lawn after one of their number had been shot by a guard while in the act of jumping. Two other men, Joseph C. Lauzon and Joe Urbaytis, were recaptured in the cell corridor and it was thought that they were also planning to escape but lost their nerve when the shooting started.

Investigation after the escape discovered a small quantity of soap and a towel used to deaden the sound of the hacksaw. These were on a window ledge about 20 feet above the floor. The cut in the bar was fresh and was thought to have been done by Banghart, whose duties as a window cleaner in the cell block gave him an opportunity to do the necessary work.

McGoldrick, who sprained his ankle in leaping from the window, was captured shortly after near Fort McPherson and is still in the penitentiary.

Rosenberg, who was known as one of the cleverest of mail thieves on record, had boasted that he would make the United States "pay him one million dollars for every year he spent in the pen" and much apprehension was felt lest he should try to make good his threat somewhere in this vicinity but his next venture proved his undoing. This occurred in Indiana

NEGRO MESSENGER IS ROBBED OF $650 BY THREE BANDITS

Three young unmasked white bandits late Friday night robbed Bob Robinson, veteran negro messenger of the Georgia Power company, of $650 as he was taking the money from the Broad street to the Piedmont office of the company, according to police reports.

Robinson was approaching the offices on Piedmont avenue when a car drew up at the curb near him and two men jumped out leaving a companion at the wheel. The two bandits ran up to Robinson and jerked a basket containing the money and a quantity of street car tickets, from his arm. As he cried out for help they ran up an alley leading to Butler street and the auto sped on. The third thief drove the car around the block and met his companions as they emerged from the alley on Butler street, bearing the loot.

Supplied with the license number and a description of the bandits by Robinson, Detectives Blair, Whatley, Jones and Chester were assigned to the case.

Walter A Jones, of a North Jackson street address, was arrested as he returned an automobile to a local car renting organization by Detective Jones and Chester, about two hours after the robbery.

Jones denied any part in the affair.

TENNESSEEANS ACCORD SMITH MONSTER WELCOME AS HE ATTACKS HOOVER AS DODGER

SENATOR SIMMONS FINALLY ATTACKS AL SMITH IN OPEN

North Carolina Patriach and Senate Leader Says Sole Opposition Is on Dry Stand.

New Bern, N. C., October 12.—(AP)—Charging the democratic party with conducting a "two-faced and hypocritical" campaign, Senator F. M. Simmons, former democratic national committeeman from North Carolina, called on voters at an anti-Smith democratic rally here tonight not to be influenced by the "smoke screen of intolerance thrown about the campaign in the south."

It was the first political utterance of Senator Simmons since he resigned from the national democratic committee after declaring that he could not support the party nominee, Governor Alfred E. Smith.

"The democratic national committee and party," Senator Simmons said, "are conducting a two-faced campaign; a militant liquor campaign in the north and east and an evasive and soft pedalling campaign upon the question of liquor in the south under the smoke screen of intolerance and religious prejudice."

"Governor Smith has deliberately made the question of state control of liquor traffic the paramount issue in this campaign. His Milwaukee speech opened the campagin upon this question in the wet states of the west, north and east, and from now on in those sections it will wax and be almost exclusively on the question of liquor control, according to the plan outlined in his speech and in his speech of acceptance.

"The smoke screen of intolerance will not be resorted to there as it has been in the south, but if so it will be directed not against the intolerance of the Protestants but against the intolerance of those who are massed solidly behind Governor Smith's candidacy because of his church. There will, of course, in the north as in the south be some discussion of his position upon immigration and the tariff but that will be only secondary and auxiliary to the main issue of liquor.

"In the south all during the month of September there has been an intensive drive by the distinguished lawyers and politicians who have been going hither and thither throughout the states in an attempt to round up the masses of people under the lash of party loyalty and regularity. In this drive they have evaded or refused to discuss the issues either of prohibition or immigration. Both of these questions have been shunted.

"Governor Smith's telegram of repudiation, his appointment of Raskob as chairman of the democratic national committee, his declaration in favor of state control of liquor traffic and his emphatic announcement that he would put the whole power of his office behind that proposition has been treated as a mere personal expression of his views and dismissed with the statement that he could not if elected do what he says he would or wants to do in this behalf.

"Whenever the question of prohibition has been heard the men and women whose souls are wrapped up in that cause, a cause for which they struggled for more than a quarter of a century, and finally wrote into the constitution, they are told that they are not opposed to Governor Smith because he wants to destroy this great reform but because of their bigotry and sectarian prejudice. Such a two-faced campaign is demagogical, hypocritical and unworthy of a great party and its presidential candidate.

"There may be some people in the south sufficiently credulous to believe there is no danger in his threat to destroy the eighteenth amendment, but many of the people of the north and east to whom he looks for votes necessary to elect him believe he can and will do it or they would not be behind them with their influence and their money.

"In this campaign nothing has fired me like the charge that the people of North Carolina who will not vote for Smith are doing so because of intolerance and religious prejudice. Nothing has stirred me so much as this attempt to create the impression that the good men and women of this state are not heart and soul in favor of prohibition and temperance and that they are not going to vote against Smith because of his attitude upon that question.

"The inspiration which made North Carolina a prohibition state came from

MOTORCYCLIST DIES AS MACHINE HITS DR. OWENSBY'S CAR

Bennie Hightower, 20-year-old negro messenger for a drug company at 1687 Peachtree road, was almost instantly killed Friday night when he rode a motorcycle head-on into an automobile driven by Dr. Newdigate Owensby, of a Peachtree road address, on Peachtree road near Brookwood station, according to county police records.

According to witnesses Dr. Owensby, who is a well known psychiatrist, was driving south at a moderate speed when Hightower, who was traveling rapidly north, swerved his 'cycle, for some undetermined reason, and crashed into Dr. Owensby's car. No case was made as the accident seemed to be unavoidable.

Roy Dickerson, Bandit, Seen Here Twice Sunday

:: SLEUTH BELIEVES ROBBER HAS FLED CITY ::

Roy Dickerson, nationally famous bandit and escape artist extraordinary, was seen near the Atlanta Terminal station Thursday morning and on Capitol avenue last Sunday morning, according to information furnished city detectives Thursday by a man who said that he "had played billiards with Dickerson in Mobile, Ala., years ago," it was revealed Friday.

The informant, whose identity is being withheld by police, stated that he saw Dickerson and a companion, whom Dickerson referred to as "Slick," parked in a light sedan on Capitol avenue early Sunday. The informant said that he had spoken to Dickerson after the former had extended the first greeting, and had entered into a brief conversation with the escaped convict, not knowing that he (Dickerson) was being sought by police for alleged complicity in a series of daring holdups Friday and Saturday night, in which E. H. Meek, clerk for an A. & P. grocery, at 1004 Hemphill avenue, was fatally wounded, and I. V. Ellis, the manager, slightly wounded by the bandits' gun fire. A prison photograph of Dickerson was positively identified Thursday by Miss Frances Hogue, of Powder Springs, as being that of the man who killed Meek. Miss Hogue was in the store at the time of the holdup.

"The man who had played billiards with Dickerson in Mobile" told detectives that he had not known the outlaw was wanted by Atlanta authorities until he read The Constitution Wednesday morning. On the basis of the information carried by this newspaper, he reported to police immediately after he had seen Dickerson near the Terminal station Thursday.

Despite the fact that the bandit has been reported seen here twice since the epidemic of robberies last week-end, Detective John Lowe said Friday that he did not believe Dickerson was in or near Atlanta. "He is too shrewd a man to be hanging around here now," the detective declared.

ROBINSON BACKS SMITH DRY VIEWS

States Should Fix Alcoholic Content, Senator Says in Speech in California.

En Route With Senator Robinson to Seattle, October 12.—(AP)—Speaking to citizens of northern California on his way to Seattle today, Senator Joe T. Robinson declared himself heartily in accord with Governor Smith's view that the Volstead act gives no scientific definition as to what constitutes an intoxicating beverage.

"Governor Smith favors, and I am heartily in accord with his views, a change in the Volstead act," Senator Robinson said, "which would give a scientific definition of what is an intoxicating beverage. Under this change in the law, such states as desire them would be permitted to have very light wines and beer."

The nominee praised hi running mate's stand on prohibition at considerable length and declared that there was in his program only a sincere desire to correct what he considers evils that have arisen from the prohibition amendment.

"Governor Smith's views on the liquor question," the democratic vice presidential nominee asserted, "rest on the belief that the Volstead act should be amended to give the states the right to regulate the sale of liquor within their own boundaries.

"There is nothing in that program to suggest nullification," Senator Robinson said. "It is an orderly attempt by legal processes to bring about real temperance."

Senator Robinson also told those who came to greet him as his train moved through the home state of Herbert Hoover, that every state of the solid south would support this democratic ticket and that all but two of them would give Governor Smith "the greatest majorities ever given a democratic candidate for president."

While the nominee took every effort to greet folks in California, he took advantage of the long ride to Seattle to rest up for the remainder of the campaign in the northwest. First of the nominees of this campaign to come into Oregon and Washington state, Mr. Robinson was prepared to speak on issues he feels are vital to this section. It is probable that he will discuss shipping and the merchant marine in his speech at Seattle tomorrow night and farm relief in the home state of Senator McNary, co-author of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, at Portland, Ore., Monday night.

HOMING PIGEONS HELD AS EVIDENCE IN EXTORT PLOT

New York, October 12.—(AP)—Five homing pigeons which, police say, were to be used in an extortion scheme, were held today as evidence against Charles Gregory, who was arraigned on a charge of attempted extortion.

Gregory was arrested yesterday as he attempted to deliver a carton containing the pigeons to the home of Mary Asaro, owner of a grocery store. She is said to have received a threatening letter demanding $1,000.

Police say the pigeons were to be used to deliver the money to blackmailers. Small bags were fastened to the legs of two of the birds. Miss Asaro was to have placed a $500 bill in each bag and free the birds. It was believed five birds were obtained because homing pigeons fly better in a group.

Gregory was held in $3,000 bail. Police sought two other men as his confederates.

HARDMAN DECIDES FORM OF BALLOT

Attempt To Deceive Public by Falsely Labelling Ticket Laid to Anti-Smithites by Watkins.

Official ballots under the Neill election law will carry the democratic state nominees directly under the democratic national ticket, while the national tickets of other parties will be placed in parallel columns at right angles to the democratic column, Governor L. G. Hardman decided Friday after a conference with democratic and republican leaders.

As a concession to the republican and anti-Smith forces, the ballots will have the words: "Democratic state ticket" over the state house nominees, with a line separating the national and state tickets of the democratic ticket, in order that the voter will not be confused if he desired to vote the anti-Smith, republican, socialist or communist national ticket and the democratic state ticket, it was announced.

Conforming with the Neill law, each of the parties represented on the Australian ballot will be arrayed in parallel columns, except the democratic ticket, which, because of its length, will be placed in such a position as to prevent the ticket from becoming unwieldy. The democratic state office nominees will appear on the ballot but once. Assistant Attorney General T. R. Gress approved the arrangement, and said that it would conform with the Neill law.

Personnel of Conference.

At Friday's conference with Governor Hardman were H. G. Hastings, Clint W. Hager and J. T. Rose, of the republican party; Barry Wright and Hooper Alexander, of the anti-Smith democrats, and Reuben Arnold and Albert Howell and Edgar Watkins of the democratic party.

The republicans sought to have the democratic statehouse nominees placed under each national ticket, but the democrats contended that these were solely the nominees of the democratic party, and that the Neill law sets out that the nominees shall be placed on the ticket according to their party designations. The republicans and anti-Smith democrats had filed the list of democratic state nominees as their nominees for state offices.

Governor Hardman, in hearing arguments as to the form of the ticket to be voted on in Georgia on November 6, did not hear argument from the different factions separately, as said in an afternoon paper, it was stated Friday by Edgar Watkins, who was present at the hearing as one of the representatives of the democratic party in the state.

Both Sides Heard.

"Governor Hardman heard argument from both sides at the same time and not separately, as was stated," said Mr. Watkins.

"The governor was presented with a question both of law and of morals," he continued. "The hybrid Hoover-Aid society asked the governor to put under the list of republican electors the state democratic ticket and sought to have this impossible combination of republican electors and democratic candidates labeled 'anti-Al Smith democrats.' The governor could not do this under the law. You cannot legally force the nominees of the democratic party on a ticket that is anti-democratic. No one can have his name on a party ballot unless he affiliates with the party.

"In an almost identical situation, and in vindicating the rights of the voters, the supreme court of Nebraska said, 'The voter may not be deceived by false labels.'

"That is exactly what the opposition to democracy in Georgia sought to do. To label falsely a ticket headed by Hoover electors and trailed by democratic nominees. In the Nebraska case already referred to the supreme court said further:

"'We conclude that one of the necessary qualifications of a candidate for a political party is affiliation with that party.'

"No one can contend that the democratic nominees, all of whom signed

IMMIGRATION CUT AND NOT INCREASE IS PARTY'S PLAN

Governor Charges Hoover and Republicans Attempt To Mislead on Acceptance Speech.

RENEWS PLEDGE TO WORK SHOALS

Tells Cheering Thousands He Advocates Principles Defended by Andrew Jackson.

BY WALTER CHAMBLIN, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Nashville, Tenn., October 12.—(AP)—Utterances by Herbert Hoover and Senator Curtis, the two republican candidates, drew fire tonight from Governor Smith, who accused his opponents with having used vague language in setting forth their views.

Speaking here within a few miles of the tomb of Andrew Jackson, one of the founders of democracy, the governor again appealed for an application of the Jeffersonion doctrine of state rights to the administration of many affairs of the nation.

Farm relief, water power, immigration and prohibition were among the issues touched upon in the address which was interrupted by cheer after cheer from the crowd which packed Ryman auditorium and overflowed through open doors into the streets.

Probably the most wildly enthusiastic and largest demonstration of his campaign trip through the southland was accorded Governor Smith late today by the populace of Tennessee's state capital upon his arrival from Chattanooga. Through a throng at the railroad station the democratic presidential nominee only was able to reach his automobile with the aid of four husky policemen who pushed away people hemming in upon him on all sides.

Governor Smith then headed a long motorcade which proceeded through the city to war memorial state building. The streets for the mile stretch were lined almost solidly with cheering people. At the war memorial the nominee ascended a stand and reviewed a procession of state militia cavalry, infantry and two military bands. The victory square in front of the memorial building was filled with people who alternately cheered and sang "Dixie" and "The Sidewalks of New York."

After the parade Governor Smith returned to his train for dinner before going to the auditorium to speak.

Three Confederate veterans dressed in the gray uniform of the soldiers of Lee, waived a Confederate flag from the platform.

DR. MORRISON ARRIVES FOR DEDICATION RITES

Editor of Christian Century To Speak at Peachtree Christian Church.

Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison, of Chicago, editor of the Christian Century, arrived in Atlanta Friday and will be principal speaker both Sunday morning and evening at the final dedication services of the new Peachtree Christian church.

The Sunday services, which will see dedication of the church proper, will climax a week of devotional dedicatory meetings held nightly at the Peachtree Christian church.

An enthusiastic advocate of the Gothic church, Dr. Morrison several years ago expressed a desire to be present at the dedication exercises of the Peachtree Christian church when that edifice was completed. Dr. Morrison is the author of "The Outlawry of War," one of the year's best sellers.

Dr. Morrison recently returned from a three-month stay in Europe, where he spoke in all the large cities of England on the principles and ideals of the Kellogg treaty. He was present at the signing of the pact in Paris.

He also will be guest at the Presidents' club dinner in the Biltmore Monday night. His two principal messages on international affairs will be delivered at the 5 o'clock service Sunday afternoon at the church and at the Presidents' club dinner.

1,000 ARE REGISTERED FOR DOCTORS' MEETING

Commercial and Scientific Displays Will Feature Great Assembly.

With more than 1,000 doctors already registered, final preparations for the assembly of the Inter-State Post-Graduate Medical association, which convenes at the auditorium at 7 o'clock Monday morning, will be rushed to completion today.

A feature of the meeting, calculated to appeal to laymen as well as professional men, will be the exhibits, the last of which will be placed in Taft hall today.

Included in these displays will be examples of the craftsmanship of more than 100 companies which cater to the medical profession. The newest surgical implements and hospital operating room equipment from the minutest scapula to the most modern tables will be shown. Books, optical instruments and general hospital equipment will be presented.

Scientific Displays.

Distinct from commercial displays will be exhibits of a purely scientific nature. Various educational institutions, associations formed for control of specific diseases, such as anti-tuberculosis organizations, and other scientific and humanitarian groups will offer displays.

As a forerunner to the large clinics which will be held during next week under a hundred internationally known specialists, local authorities will conduct smaller clinics today at Wesley Memorial hospital.

Friday there were several lectures and clinical discussions at Wesley Memorial for the benefit of early arrivals, of which there were several hundred.

Dr. Owensby Speaks.

Dr. Newdigate Owensby, Atlanta psychiatrist, gave an interesting address upon insanity and its varied manifestations, in which he quoted significant figures.

In addition to Dr. Owensby the following physicians spoke during the morning session: Dr. E. D. Highsmith, Dr. Charles Boynton and Dr. William N. Adkins, Dr. W. S. Goldsmith and Dr. L. G. Baggett, Dr. J. E. Paullin, Dr. H. C. Sauls and Dr. H. M. Bowcock, Dr. Charles Dowman and Dr. W. A. Smith.

In the afternoon the schedule was as follows:

Dr. F. P. Calhoun and Dr. Grady Clay, eye, 1:30 o'clock; Dr. J. C. Johnson, gastroenterology, 2 o'clock; Dr. John Denton and Dr. Walter Holmes, gynecology and cystoscopy, 2:30 o'clock; Dr. Cyrus Strickler and Dr. Reynolds, medicine, 3 o'clock; Dr. Charles Waits and Dr. T. C. Davison, thyroid, 3:30 o'clock; Dr. W. L. Funkhouser and Dr. Hines Roberts, pediatrics, 4 o'clock; Dr. Dunbar Roy and Dr. Murdock Equen, ear, nose and throat, 4:30 o'clock.

BENNETT TO SPEAK TO TATTNALL VOTERS

Issues of Campaign To Be Discussed at Party Rally.

Savannah, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Marvin O'Neal, Jr., district chairman of the Young Men's Democratic league, was today advised that John W. Bennett, of Waycross, will address the voters of Tattnall county on the issues of the campaign, at Reidsville, next Monday, October 15, during the noon hour of superior court which will be in session at that time. Arrangements have been made by Mr. O'Neal with Judge J. S. Daniel for his engagement.

Mr. Bennett is one of the best known men in Georgia, and one of the presidential electors on the democratic ticket. He was United States district attorney during the Wilson administration. He is one of the leading Baptist of Georgia, and an outstanding prohibitionist.

The fact that Mr. Bennett is to deliver an address at Reidsville will draw a large crowd not only from Tattnall, but from adjoining counties.

H. Powell Smith, the chairman of the Young Men's Democratic league of Tattnall county, will have the details of the arrangements in charge and will no doubt preside. Judge Bennett will be introduced by Judge C. L. Cowart, or some other prominent speaker of Tattnall county.

Mr. O'Neal has also arranged with Judge Daniel for the noon hour of Bryant superior court for a speaking engagement at Clyde on November 5, at which Albert M. Deal, of Statesboro; J. P. Dukes, W. F. Slater and Dr. W. K. Smith will be heard in behalf of the national democratic ticket.

Judge Strange has granted Mr. O'Neal's request for the noon hour of Bulloch superior court at Statesboro on October 22, and in addition to the local speakers, Eugene Cox, Georgia congressman from the second district will be heard at that time.

DUNLAP TO ADVISE LOCAL COMPANIES ON FOREIGN TRADE

William A. Dunlap, former American vice consul to Sydney and Melbourne, Australia, and to Tampico, Mexico, and at present connected with the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, at Washington, is in Atlanta for a visit of several weeks for the purpose of giving assistance and advice to anyone interested in the problem of foreign trade, and may be reached at the office of H. O. Mitchell in the Post Office building.

Mr. Dunlap is most enthusiastic about the Atlanta Foreign trade club which he states is one of the livest organizations of its kind he has ever come in contact with and one that compares most favorably with similar clubs in much larger cities.

His particular work at present is in the agricultural implement division and he says that the United States leads the world in the production and importation of farm implements of all kinds. Shipments for the month of August exceeded $13,000,000, making the total for the first eight months of 1928 over $80,000,000, he said, and this exceeds those of any full calendar year since 1920 with the exception of 1926 annd 1927, both of which were record years.

14 FEET OF CITY PROPERTY SOUGHT FOR NEW STATION

Immediate start on construction of the new Union station awaits action Monday of the bridge committee of city council, it was announced Friday by James B. Hill, president of the N., C. & St. L. railway.

When the committee meets at 10 o'clock Monday morning, it will be asked to recommend an easement to 14 feet of city property in order that the roads may construct the proposed new station in accordance with drawings already prepared.

The N., C. & St. L. has given the city use of 30 feet along Wall street to be used as a traffic lane, and the mayor believes the city should reciprocate and permit the easement in order that the depot construction can begin immediately.

"PUBLIC WELFARE" TO APPEAR OCT. 20 IN BULLETIN FORM

"Public Welfare," the bulletin published by the state department of public welfare, will appear in a new garb when it is released on October 20. Instead of a mimeographed pamphlet, it will come out in up-to-date printed bulletin form, and will carry timely, readable and informative material, according to announcement by the department.

The October number will feature articles on "What Is a Case Worker?" and "What Is Public Welfare?" A column entitled "Roundabout Georgia," will carry welfare news from all over the state. S. J. Crane, director of the division of education and statistics, is editor of the bulletin.

LOCAL GIRL SCOUTS TO STUDY METHODS OF PICTURE-MAKING

In observation of national picture week, October 10-20, a photographer's club has been organized by a group of Atlanta Girl Scouts. The work of the club will be directed by Mrs. William F. Talley, Girl Scout director, and the purpose is to study the best methods in making and finishing camera pictures.

The club members will have for their purpose the attainment of photographer merit badges, awarded to members who have successfully filled certain requirements, including knowledge of the value of the essential features of the camera; composition in the arrangement of a good picture; making of a picture from the time the film is purchased until the finished print is in hand; production of pictures made and finished by applicant.

Stanley, Jones, McGrath To Study Workmen's Compensation Systems

Hal M. Stanley, state industrial commissioner; Sharpe Jones, secretary of the industrial commission, and J. P. McGrath, secretary of the Georgia Manufacturers' association, will leave Sunday for an automobile tour of Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania to study the workmen's compensation systems of those states. FORMER CASHIER'S AID SOUGHT AFTER BANK LOSES $70,000

Inverness, Fla., October 12.—(AP)—Authorities of Florida and neighboring states were asked today by Sheriff B. O. Bowden, of Citrus county, to aid in a search for Leon Earl Carter, former assistant cashier of the defunct Citizens' Bank of Inverness, who is charged with embezzling at least $70,000 from the institution.

Carter's shortage was not discovered until a week ago after the bank closed and he had left the city in a borrowed automobile to be gone "two or three days." He was last seen in Tallahassee on October 3, the day the bank failed to open.

State Bank Examiner Drawdy, sent here from Tallahassee to take charge of the institution, discovered the shortage, which extended over several months, and has not yet been completely checked, Drawdy said, and he swore out the warrant for the missing official Wednesday.

Authorities here expect Carter's bondsmen to offer a reward for his arrest.

Carter's mother, wife and child live here. He is described as being about 32 years old, five feet 11 inches tall, weighs about 150 pounds and has blue eyes.

MOUNTAIN PARK SCENES IMPRESS CIVIC DELEGATES

Washington, October 12.—(AP)—Harlean F. James, secretary of the American Civic association, in a telegram to the Associated Press today, described a three-day "traveling meeting" and an inspection trip by the association on the Tennessee side of the great Smoky Mountain park project which the association has actively supported.

"Members of the conference representing many states in the union are enthusiastic in their praise of the scenic qualities and recreational opportunities of the new park," he said, "and predict that it will be one of the most popular national parks. Roger Toll, superintendent of Rocky Mountain National park in Colorado, spoke on the business of operating national parks for the people.

"Three of the speakers laid stress on the importance of safeguarding the development of Washington. Tom Wallace, editor of the Louisville Times, made an eloquent plea for the preservation of Cumberland Falls in Kentucky. The delegates traveled over the mountains from Gatlinburg to Asheville and will make an examination of the North Carolina side of the park."

PETERS ST. WIDENING WORK TO BE RUSHED

County Commissioners To Start Work on Paving Next Week.

The long-looked-for widening and paving of Peters street is to become an actuality and within the next 60 days, it is expected, following an announcement made Friday by Alderman Robert F. Pennington that the Fulton county commissioners have agreed to start work on the paving next week.

The paving will be 60 feet from curb to curb and will run over a right-of-way provided by the city from Walker street to Park street. The county will defray the actual expense of paving and the city by an assessment plan, with cooperation of property owners, has provided the wider thoroughfare.

On completion of the entire widening Peters street will be a 60-foot boulevard, lined with 10-foot sidewalks from the Peters street viaduct to the Whitehall street intersection. It is expected by advocates of the widening that through this new boulevard the traffic congestion on Forsyth and Whitehall streets will be materially lessened and the West End will be placed in far better touch with the downtown districts of the city.

Approval of the streets committee of city council was given to the project some time ago but consent of the Fulton county body was obtained only recently. Commenting on the work Friday, Paul S. Etheridge, acting secretary of the public works commission, stated that work would be pushed on the work with a view to having it practically completed by the Christmas holidays.

Alderman Pennington, of the first ward, has been one of the most active proponents of the plan from its inception, some five or more years ago. About two years ago he was made a member of the streets committee of city council and since that time has pressed his cause with vigor.

The Peters Street Improvement club also has been active in the agitation for the work and several independent Peters street property owners have cooperated by giving land necessary for widening the thoroughfare.

The entire work when completed will cost, it is estimated, approximately $235,000.

BOY IS WOUNDED IN LEFT SHOULDER; NEGRO IS SOUGHT

Jim Chipley, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Chipley, of 312 Hayden street, was slightly wounded in the left shoulder late Friday afternoon when he was struck by a bullet and police are looking for Freeman Lewis, 17-year-old negro of an unknown address.

Chipley was released from Grady hospital after receiving treatment. Police were unable to gain accurate information on the affair but were told that several persons were involved in an altercation which ended in the shooting of the Chipley boy. Lewis had disappeared when Officers Herndon and Richardson arrived at Hayden and Harris street, where the shooting occurred.

DECATUR WOMAN GRANTED DIVORCE FROM IMPOSTOR

Decatur, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ellen Lidell Morrow Underwood, who married Kline Underwood after a three-day romance in Charlotte, N. C., where she was attending college, was granted a divorce in DeKalb superior court Friday. She charged that Underwood represented himself as the son of a wealthy North Carolina man when in reality he was employed in a cotton mill.

The marriage occurred in 1926. Mrs. Underwood said her husband also represented himself as the chief accountant of a motor company in Detroit. They started for that city after the wedding, she said, but upon their arrival in Washington, she learned that he was without funds or employment.

'Sweetest Day' Here; Candy for Everybody

Closing national "candy week," during which sweets have been featured by stores and manufacturers everywhere, today—designated as "sweetest day"—will be featured by a parade in which pretty girls will distribute free candy kisses from automobiles while music fills the air. At the same time inmates of 22 local charitable institutions will feast on candy sent them by the Atlanta makers. Here's a group of husky youngsters registering their joy at the free candy to which they were treated by kind-hearted manufacturers, who are promoting the "candy week" event here. Left to right, Albert Early, Mamie Allen, Mary Louise Fortenberry, Paul Faucette, Inez Woods and James Harris, all of the Baptist orphanage at Hapeville.

Mr. Pittman was a former resident of Douglasville and was prominent there in business and in social circles. He later made his home in East Point but had been living with Dr. Bridges for some time.

He was a member of Camp Walker, U. C. V., and of the East Point lodge, F. A. M., and was active for many years in veteran and Masonic work.

LIFE TERM BEGINS FOR WADE JOHNSON ON CONVICT FARM

Macon, Ga., October 12.—(AP)—Wade Johnson, whose death sentence was recently reduced to life imprisonment by Governor Hardman, today was transferred from his cell in the Bibb county jail, where he has been confined for four years, to the county convict farm here, where he will begin serving his term.

He was convicted with Jarrett Benford of criminal assault on an aged Jones county woman and sentenced to hang. After losing all appeals to the higher courts the governor was asked to commute his sentence. Clifford Walker commuted the sentence of Benford while he was serving as governor.

Be SURE You Have a GOOD Refrigerator

Nothing can equal Ice in a good refrigerator for keeping food fresh and retaining its flavor. But Ice cannot do its best for you if you put it in a poor refrigerator—one that leaks air or is not well insulated, or is worn out with age. Don't blame Ice for the faults of your Ice box.

It would pay you to get a new refrigerator if your old one is not all right. Fifty pounds of Ice in the right kind of a refrigerator will last longer than seventy-five pounds in a worn out refrigerator and it would keep your food in perfect condition. If you would like advice in selecting a good refrigerator, ask us.

CRISP CHARGES FARM DEPRESSION TO G. O. P.

Forsyth, October 12.—(AP)—"The republican party has played politics with farm relief while the farmers were in dire need," declared Congressman Charles R. Crisp in a speech at a democratic political rally here this afternoon. "When it was up to the republicans to pass some legislative bill, they passed nothing. By the Jeffersonian yardstick the republican party has been measured for efficiency and honesty and has been found lacking."

The congressman called attention to the fact that Joseph T. Robinson is the first son of a Confederate veteran who has been nominated for vice president. "And the south is talking about bolting!" he exclaimed. The audience roared and came to its feet.

"Al Smith has been called a Tammany man," continued the congressman. "But Tammany has always stood with the south. Tammany compared with the machines in Philadelphia and Chicago, which stand behind Hoover, is a personification of virtue."

The congressman declared that he believed Smith, if elected, will offer the best prohibition enforcement since enactment of the law. "The best way to keep or abolish a law," he commented, "is to enforce it. Smith will either enforce the law to make it obnoxious or he will enforce it because it will prove successful."

He declared that "Catholicism is the paramount issue." "If the 100,000,000 Protestants in America are afraid the 18,000,000 Catholics here will turn them over to the pope, they're a mighty spineless lot, but if a Catholic is worthy to die for his country, as many did in the world war, is he not worthy of holding office in time of peace?"

MEXICAN SENATE TO CUT DOWN ON QUOTA OF MOTORS

Mexico City, October 12.—(AP)—In a spirit of economy such as recently demonstrated by other branches of the government, the senate majority has decided to dispense with the numerous automobiles now owned by the senate and to cancel the special allowances granted to the senate's president and other officers.

The Obregonista bloc, which constitutes the majority, has approved a motion to sell the automobiles at public auction, with the exception of one for the president's use, and to deprive the president of his present extraordinary allowance of $500 a month and the vice presidents, secretaries and members of committee of administration of the $250 monthly now allowed them in addition to their salaries.

WHITE WAY DEDICATED

Mayor Ragsdale Speaks in Eleventh Ward.

With city officials and ward leaders taking part in a program of dedicatory speeches the city's newest whiteway, at Flat Shoals and Glenwood avenues, in the eleventh ward, was flashed on Friday night, before a crowd of approximately 8,000 persons.

The program was arranged by Councilman G. B. Lyle and Mayor Ragsdale made the principal address. Alderman J. C. Murphy, Councilman W. R. Johnson, Councilman John A. White, City Electrician R. C. Turner, and Dr. T. T. Davis, pastor of the Moreland Avenue Baptist church, spoke.

At the invitation of Mr. Lyle several of the ministers of churches in the ward were present at the exercises, occupying places on the speakers' platform.

TWO CHILDREN HURT.

Edwin McGill Seriously Injured by Automobile.

One child was seriously injured and another slightly hurt in motor accidents in Atlanta Friday morning.

Edwin McGill, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McGill, of 93 Clifton street, suffered a serious head injury when he was struck down at the intersection of Boulevard drive and Clifton street, by an automobile driven by J. W. Bracewell, of 51 Warren street. According to police reports the boy darted from the side of an older sister into the street directly in front of the oncoming machine. Bracewell picked the boy up and took him to Grady hospital. No case was made.

Allie Mae Williams, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Williams, of 527 Tennelle street, was badly bruised when she was struck at the intersection of Fair and Boulevard by an automobile operated by B. L. Rawlings, of Lawrenceville. A case of reckless driving was made against Rawlings and his case was set for October 16.

Kidnaped Girl Held Over Night Found by Police

Janesville, Wis., October 12.—(AP)—Anna Domino, 19-year-old girl, who was kidnaped at Rockford, Ill., last night, was found here this morning. Police said that she had been brought here by a man and held in a grocery store over night.

The girl, almost hysterical, told police that she was on her way home at about 7:30 o'clock last night when a man sprang from behind a tree, clamped a hand over her mouth and threw her into an automobile.

She was taken to a house in Rockford, but her captor evidently feared her screams might spread an alarm, so he, with the aid of two other men and a woman, again placed her in the car and brought her here, arriving about midnight, she told police.

Miss Domino declared that her abductor was Peter Scifo, of Rockford, who has been persistently wooing her for some time despite repeated rejections on her part.

The girl had lost a tooth in her struggles with the kidnapers and had been severely choked, and while she was in an almost hysterical condition, declared that she had not been otherwise molested. She was taken home by her parents.

Police instituted search for Scifo and his aides. They expressed belief, however, that they had fled to Chicago.

FARMER FATALLY HURT WHEN AX FLIES OFF HANDLE

Waycross, Ga., October 12.—G. M. Turner, 42, well known farmer of Brantley county, received fatal injuries late yesterday when he was struck by an ax, an artery in his left leg being severed by the steel blade. He died at Hoboken, where he was rushed for medical attention.

Turner was in the woods with his young son, Cleyon Turner, near their home at Hickox. The pair were cutting cross ties. The axe flew out of the hands of the younger Turner and struck the father a terrific blow, cutting his leg practically off, just above the knee. The wound bled freely and Turner was exhausted from loss of blood within a few minutes.

He was rushed to the nearest point where medical attention could be obtained, but he died before a doctor was summoned.

DYING VETERAN GETS LAST WISH TO SEE MOTHER

New Orleans, October 12.—(AP)—Frank Gilbert, 35-year-old world war veteran, today probably took the last and most enjoyable train ride of his life. He was being borne home to his mother and child in Chicago in the embrace of his American Legion comrades.

They had found him dying in a hospital here from a lung infection and undertook to satisfy his one wish that he might die at home. When the special train bearing the board of trade post pulled out of New Orleans, this fallen soldier was aboard, so buoyed by the prospects of returning home the doctors believe he will survive the trip.

WORLD WAR VETS LEAVE TEXAS FOR SIGHTS OF MEXICO

San Antonio, Texas, October 12.—(AP)—Veterans of the world war moved on Mexico today in a pleasure-seeking peace-time invasion of the southern republic. Close of the tenth annual American Legion convention here found hundreds of the delegates en route to the border for a week-end of entertainment.

Excursions into Mexico and bull fights at several below-the-border points were scheduled activities. One contingent of the veterans will push on to Mexico City for a visit in the capital city.

ENGLISH PRINCESS WARMLY GREETED ON BELFAST VISIT

Belfast, Northern Ireland, October 12.—(AP)—Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles were visibly touched at the warmth of a reception by a big crowd on their arrival in the Ulster capital today.

The princess received an address of welcome at the council chamber and later took roses from her bouquet and placed them on the memorial to the men of the Ulster division. Later she visited Queen's Island and the shipbuilding yards. The couple everywhere was greeted with enthusiasm.

VARE-WILSON ELECTION CONTEST IS RESUMED

Pittsburgh, October 12.—(AP)—The senatorial investigation of the Vare-Wilson election in November, 1926, was resumed here today before United States Senator C. C. Waterman, of Colorado. Republican ward chairmen and Colonel Eric Fisher Wood, chairman of the 1926 republican campaign executive committee, were the witnesses.

Colonel Wood said he knew of no conspiracy to corrupt the election.

Justus Schradel, superintendent of Allegheny county property, and a ward chairman, was questioned about tax receipts. He said he did not handle receipts for the election in question, but that during the primary he had obtained some receipts from republican headquarters, and had paid for others himself. Senator Waterman asked if the witness knew the law under which voters must obtain their own tax receipts. Schadel said most of the time he had a written order from the voters. Ask if headquarters had paid any taxes, he said he understood this was "the practice all around."

P. J. Sullivan, Police Magistrate W. J. Soost and State Senator Morris Einsten, all ward chairmen, testified they knew of no conspiracy to control the 1926 election.

Police Magistrate E. M. Hough, a ward chairman, replying to questions put by counsel for Vare, said he never heard of an alleged conspiracy hatched by the central republican committee in Philadelphia, to "steal the election."

PARIS PRESS SEES DAVIS SPEECH AS CLARIFYING PACT

Paris, October 12.—(AP)—Secretary of War Davis' speech at the American Legion convention found an echo in Le Temps today when the paper observed that the speech answered the erroneous contention held in certain quarters that signature of the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war ought logically to have more or less immediate effects in favor of the reduction of armaments.

In his address, Secretary Davis said that the administration did not contemplate any weakening of the national defense because of the Kellogg-Briand treaty.

Le Temps said that the idea of a reduction of armament did not exist in the minds of the promoters of the pact and it would be wrong to see in the Davis speech any recoil from the spirit in which the treaty was realized.

SIMON COMMISSION IS NOT WELCOME IN BRITISH INDIA

Poona, Bombay, British India, October 12.—(AP)—The Simon commission, which is to determine what measure of self-government shall be given to British India, arrived here today to find the city observing a "day of mourning."

The demonstration took the form of a display of black flags which were carried in processions by students and other agitating elements. The marchers continually chanted:

"Simon, go back."

The cry was taken up by spectators all along the route who thus expressed the native distrust of the commission.

SPEEDING ATLANTA'S BUSINESS and TRANSPORTATION . . . by AIR . . .

The expansion of the country's air mail routes to include Atlanta has brought to this city the most rapid mail communication possible to all points South, North and West. It has virtually annihilated distance; it has made an exchange of correspondence to distant points a matter of a few days instead of one or two weeks.

And that is not all. Atlanta's aerial service is not confined to the speeding up of business and social mail alone. Pitcairn Aviation, the operators of the air mail, maintain a complete flying service at the Municipal Airport, just outside the city. Flying instruction and sightseeing flights are conducted at all daylight hours.

Pitcairn planes are also ready at all hours to carry you anywhere in the United States and Canada—to carry you there and bring you back in less elapsed time than is usually necessary to go one way.

For rates and other information regarding the air mail, point-to-point transportation, sightseeing flights, and flying instruction, write to the field manager, or telephone Fairfax 1836. Atlanta office telephone—Walnut 1195.

FORMER PASTOR HELD ON BIGAMY CHARGE

Oregon Waitress Prefers Charge After Finding Letter.

Portland, Ore., October 12.—(AP)—Arthur Clowe Baer, 40, who told federal officers he was former pastor of the First Methodist church, Livingston, Mont., was under arrest here today while charges brought by Irene Francis Renois, 30, waitress of Milwaukee, Wis., were being investigated.

Miss Renois said that Baer, acting as minister and bridegroom at the same time, had performed a marriage ceremony making her his wife shortly after their arrival here last July. Later, she said, she discovered he had a wife and six children in Seattle.

Officers also were informed that Baer had another wife from whom he is divorced and a son aged 17. After their marriage Miss Renois declared the minister handed her a certificate. The document, now in the hands of authorities, indicated the couple was married in 1927 in Pittsburgh, Pa., by Rev. E. O. Alexander, with W. J. Speedy and Billy McKnight as witnesses. Asked concerning discrepancies as to date and locality, Miss Renois said she had never read the certificate carefully.

The woman said she and Baer were living here happily until she discovered a letter to Baer from his wife in Seattle.

Baer had been employed as a salesman for a biscuit company. He said he left the ministry about a year and a half ago.

G. O. P. CANDIDATE REFUSES TO SPEAK IN ALBANY, N. Y.

Chicago, October 12.—(AP)—A proposed appearance of Senator Curtis, the republican vice presidential nominee, in Albany, N. Y., the home town of Governor Smith, was vetoed today by the republican candidate.

"I never have campaigned in the home city of an opponent," he declared, "and I am not going to start now. I don't play the game that way."

A noon meeting in Albany in about 10 days had been tentatively arranged by the eastern speakers' bureau of the republican national committee for Senator Curtis.

FLURRY OF SNOW GIVES LOS ANGELES UNUSUAL WEATHER

Los Angeles, October 12.—(AP)—Cold dashes of rain, pelting hail, stabs of lightning and flurries of snow brought an early winter to Southern California last night and early today.

U. S. CABARET GIRLS SENT BACK HOME BY MEX. OFFICERS

Tampico, Mexico, October 12.—(AP)—Twenty young women who came here from the United States to work in local cabarets were ordered to leave Mexico on the grounds that they failed to comply with immigration regulations.

Doctor Is Slugged In Mystery Attack By Unknown Man

Uniontown, Pa., October 12.—(AP)—Slugged by two men who appeared at his office and asked him to make an emergency sick call, Dr. H. G. Ralston was in a hospital today. The physician was weak from loss of blood, and it had not been determined if his skull was fractured.

Dr. Ralston, 35, was in his apartment adjoining his office in the Citizen's Bank building, when the two men appeared early this morning and asked that he visit a woman who was seriously ill. As the doctor turned to a desk to take the address of the woman, both men struck him with blackjacks, rendering him unconscious. When he recovered, he summoned Dr. R. H. Jeffrey, an associate, and the latter rushed him to the hospital.

Detectives could find no motive for the attack. They said the case was much similar to that of Dr. Harry Dapper, Pittsburgh, who was murdered by an unidentified man while accompanying the assailant to make a call on a woman, said by the murderer to be seriously ill.

DR. WORK ASSERTS G.O.P. IS CLINCHING NEW YORK STATE

Chicago, October 12.—(AP)—Dr. Hubert Work, national campaign manager for Herbert Hoover, came to Chicago today with a prediction that while Governor Smith is visiting with the people of the south, the republicans are clinching the state of New York for Mr. Hoover.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt is the victim of an unfair, unchivalrous attack on the part of democratic leaders. The assistant attorney general, said Dr. Work, never brings religion into her talks.

"Our democratic friends are filling the skies with wails against intolerance while their big speakers, like Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, and John W. Davis, covertly play to just that ugly quirk in human nature."

Dr. Work expects to return to Washington Sunday night.

To gladden the hearts of poor children in a score of foreign lands on Christmas morning the Atlanta chapter of the Junior Red Cross is now hard at work preparing the more than 5,000 boxes which soon will be sent to Red Cross headquarters for distribution.

Each year the younger members of the Red Cross in every large city in the country do this work. Included in these boxes are small toys, marbles, tops, crayons, whistles, pocket knives and such useful articles as hair ribbons, wash cloths, tooothpaste, collar and cuff sets. These objects are packed in cartons of a uniform size and are sent to the Brooklyn headquarters before the last of October.

The local Red Cross juniors were organized for the work here last week and are now in the midst of the beneficial work. Officers chosen were W. L. Brady, Boys' High, president; Virginia Ogletree, Girls' High, vice president; Virginia Cox, of Washington seminary, secretary, and Boifeuillet Jones, Boys' High, treasurer.

STATE HOSPITAL HEAD FACES 3 INDICTMENTS

Raleigh, N. C., October 12.—(AP)—The Wake county grand jury today returned true bills in three indictments against Dr. Albert Anderson, superintendent of the state hospital for the insane here, charging him with embezzlement and malfeasance in office. Bond was fixed at $1,000 on each.

James Adams, supervisor of the hospital farm, was indicted in one bill on a charge of embezzlement. His bond was set at $500.

The bills of indictment which the grand jury found true were presented to the jury yesterday by Solicitor L. S. Brassfield.

Three malfeasance counts concern the deaths of inmates in the hospital. One alleges that in January, 1926, a Mrs. Tolson, an inmate, was placed in the strong room without clothing, bedding, covering or heat of any sort and allowed to freeze to death "with the knowledge, consent and approval of Albert Anderson."

Another charges that a patient, whose name was not given, became ill in the dining room and was allowed to lie on the floor until dead without being given medical attention.

The third count of this nature sets forth that a patient cut his throat and was allowed to bleed to death without any effort being made to save his life.

Dr. Anderson was charged with embezzling supplies from the institution and with unlawfully using patients of the state institute and state-paid labor on his personal farm and also on a real estate development he promoted.

HICKMAN'S LAWYER WILL MAKE PLEA TO SAVE CLIENT

Kansas City, October 12.—(AP)—Jerome K. Walsh, attorney for William Edward Hickman, under sentence of death for the murder of Marion Parker, in Los Angeles, said today he planned to request Governor C. C. Young, of California, to appoint a commission to examine Hickman as to his sanity.

"I don't know what the governor will think of it," Walsh said, "but I believe it is the thing to do. Certainly the boy should not be put to death if he is insane."

Hickman's defense at his trial was based on insanity.

Walsh telegraphed Governor Young asking for a conference October 16 and dispatches from Sacramento said the governor had agreed to the conference. Hickman is sentenced to haug October 19.

The governor announced recently he would not intervene unless new and important evidence was presented.

Walsh will leave tomorrow night for California.

None of the members of the Hickman family will go to California for the execution, Walsh said. Captain Charles Edwards, adviser of the family, said the youth's mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman, would be taken to the country where she could not hear of the execution or read of it in the newspapers.

Mae Murray, Screen Star, Is Sought On Arrest Warrant

Los Angeles, October 12.—(AP)—Mae Murray, screen actress, cited for an appearance before the grand jury next Monday for investigation of charges that she committed perjury during testimony in a recent lawsuit, was sought today on a warrant accusing her of forcibly entering a house.

The warrant issued late yesterday at Santa Monica, charged that the actress forcibly entered the home of Jack Donovan, Hollywood architect. In the recent lawsuit Miss Murray won a judgment for $32,000 against Donovan after setting forth that the architect had misrepresented the character of furniture in a home bought by the actress.

The complaint was issued after a conference between Donovan and members of the district attorney's office here. Miss Murray was believed to be at Playa Del Rey, a beach resort on Santa Monica bay.

W. L. Gilbert, attorney for the actress, promised to surrender his client today after hearing that Chief of Police Clarence Webb, of Santa Monica, had threatened to arrest Miss Murray on the stage of a Los Angeles theater, where she is now engaged.

Savannah, Ga., October 12.—(AP)—The Georgia real estate commission which has been in session here since yesterday hearing the case of Edward S. Stoddard concerning the raising of the sale price of a piece of property, found him guilty and revoked his license for the unexpired portion of the year 1928.

STEAMER IS AFIRE IN PACIFIC OCEAN WITH 40 ABOARD

San Francisco, October 12.—(AP)—The British steamer, Trojan-Star, en route from San Pedro, Cal., to British Columbia, was afire 47 miles west and 40 miles north of Cape Mendocino tonight, and radio messages said the crew had lowered the boats over the side and were battling the flames. The ship carried a general cargo and a crew of between 35 and 40 men.

The Matson Navigation company's steamer Makiki, 30 miles distant from the Trojan-Star, notified shore authorities that she was speeding to the vessel's assistance. The tankers Mojave and Kekokee, both in the neighborhood, also started to the rescue.

Radio messages said the fire had reached the Trojan-Star's fuel oil.

HOTTEST OCTOBER DAY IS REGISTERED IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, October 12.—(AP)—Columbus Day temperature records in New York were broken today when at 2 o'clock the thermometer registered 83 degrees. The previous hottest October 12 was in 1886 when the mercury touched 81 degrees. The normal mean temperature here for October 12 is 58 degrees.

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS

Nominee Ends Smith Campaign With Religious Plea

Boston, October 12.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic nominee for governor of New York, concluded a Smith campaign speech here tonight with a sharp arraignment of those who, in spite of the lessons learned in the late war "still harbor religious bigotry."

"We thought that the war was going to make us better Americans, whether from the north or the south, from the city or from the country," he said. "Today some of us seem to have forgotten that lesson. If any man who saw what I saw at the front still harbors religious bigotry, then all I can say of him is 'may God have mercy on your soul.'"

Mr. Roosevelt spoke before the first voters' league of the democratic state committee. He attacked republican claims of national prosperity.

LABOR FOR SMITH

Machinists' Union President Heads New Organization.

Chicago, October 12.—(AP)—Organization of the Alfred E. Smith-For-President Union Labor league was announced today by Charles W. Fry, head of the machinists' union, who is president, and John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, who is vice president.

They also announced that the Chicago Building Trades council, with a membership of 100,000 workers, had approved Governor Smith's candidacy. They also told of the indorsement of Smith by 26 Jewish trades unions in Chicago, with a membership of 75,000.

U. S. SERVICE CROSS AWARDED DE PINEDO

Rome, October 12.—(AP)—Presentation to Francesco de Pinedo of the United States distinguished flying cross, marked the first celebration in Rome of the anniversary of the discovery of America. The presentation was made by Henry P. Flecher, United States ambassador, who referred in glowing terms to the globe-circling flight which De Pinedo made with the seaplane Santa Maria. A large and brilliant company attended the banquet at the embassy.

Mr. Fletcher said that fascist Italy had been represented most worthily by a number of "young adventurers who have written their names in the clear blue sky for all men to read." Addressing De Pinedo personally, he said:

"You proved that every portion of the surface of the earth could be explored from the air. In a new Santa Maria, smaller even than that caravel which sailed with Columbus, you showed the Italian flag to all lands.

"The whole world admired your daring spirit, your scientific preparation, your calm endurance and steady perseverance."

The ambassador then explained that the congress of the United States had authorized the president to award the distinguished flying cross to the Italian aviator. Loud applause accompanied the pinning of the decoration on De Pinedo's coat.

In his response the aviator credited Wilbur Wright with giving him his first ambition to fly, recalling that he saw Wright in the air while he was aboard a warship in the Hudson river in 1909.

DISTRESS SIGNALS OCCASION ALARM FOR COAST GUARD

San Francisco, October 12.—(AP)—Coast guard officials here were mystified today over the fate of the coast guard cutter Smith, which radioed distress signals last night from a position approximately 30 miles off Point Arena, Calif., which is 100 miles north of here on the coast.

The vessel carried a crew of ten, with Boatswain H. O. Nielson in command.

Several coast guard boats and commercial vessels in the vicinity immediately rushed to the assistance of the cutter but early tonight no word of it had been reported.

The last message from the Smith contained the distress call and was received at 9:40 p. m. yesterday.

GENOA CELEBRATES AMERICADISCOVERY BY NATIVE SON

Genoa, Italy, October 12.—(AP)—This city celebrated today the anniversary of the discovery of America by its native son, Christopher Columbus. A solemn tedeum was celebrated this morning and Archbishop Minoretti laid wreaths at the house and at the monument of Columbus.

All public buildings and many private dwellings were decorated with Italian and American flags. Tonight the public squares will be illuminated for open air concerts.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

A proposal has been made by the Georgia State Automobile association that every county in the state stage a "Georgia Hospitality Day" on November 20, at which every tourist from points outside the state who is passing through on that day will be entertained at a community dinner in the city or town in which he finds himself at the dinner hour.

The suggestion merits the enthusiastic support of every community interested in building up tourist goodwill for the state at large. The idea is unique and in keeping with the traditions of Georgia and the south.

Georgia needs more tourists. In a statement issued some time ago by one of the leading statistical bureaus of the nation, it was pointed out that the tourist business is our leading national industry in point of dollars spent. Too few of those dollars have been spent in this state in the past, because of adverse highway conditions and because of lack of effective tourist promotion.

It is a part of the plan of the automobile association that all dinners be made up entirely of Georgia products, and that the menu feature those dishes that are locally famous and of which the average person from beyond the confines of the state knows nothing. It should be recalled in this connection that the state legislature some years ago passed a resolution naming the third Tuesday in November as "Georgia Products Day," and this is the date upon which the hospitality feature has been set.

The Georgia State Automobile association merits the hearty co-operation of every county and community to make a success of this plan to increase the goodwill of the state in the tourist field. It cannot serve its fullest purpose unless every county is prepared to greet its guests with adequate and appropriate hospitality.

A HISTORIC WARNING.

Back in the old militant whig days a great political rally was staged at Nashville in Tennessee to which many thousands of loyal whigs trekked from both Tennessee and Kentucky regions. The star orator of the day was famous and eloquent Sargent S. Prentiss, of Mississippi, who had been specially imported and to hear whom the vast concourse had assembled. It was to be the gala event of the campaign in the then southwest.

But on the morning of the great day Prentiss evaded his guardian committee. The big meeting began while Prentiss was being frantically hunted. The crowd was yelling for him. He was found after a long search not far from Market square and in a thoroughly spiflicated condition. He was hurriedly trotted around until he declared himself sober enough to face the assembly that was angrily demanding "Bring on Prentiss!" He was put on the platform to appease the clamor. Throwing his arm around a young tree at a corner of the stand, Prentiss began:

"Fellow citizens, although I appear before you in the habiliments of a democrat, I wish to assure you that I am every inch a whig!"

Perhaps it is not untimely to commend a study of that episode to our erstwhile democrats who are claiming that they can consistently go off on a spree with the republicans and then "come back" into the democratic fold unchallenged hereafter.

But they must understand that they will present themselves reeking with the dirt and odors of Teapot Dome and Elk Hills oil thefts, with the whisky fumes from the "little green house in K street," the smells of the monumental corruptions of fake prohibition enforcement, and the filth of the robberies perpetrated against the veteran soldiers of the nation!

When they do so come, saying "we return in the habiliments of Fall, Sinclair, Daugherty, Forbes and the republican party, but we are every inch democrats," they should not be surprised and chagrined at the manner in which they will be met at the door.

DELAY THAT HURTS.

Completion of the widening, regrading and paving of Courtland street, making a main traffic boulevard through from Ponce de Leon avenue, across the city and south by Washington street, is of vital importance to the traffic situation in Atlanta.

Courtland street has been widened ten feet on each side from Edgewood avenue to Forrest avenue. It has been for this distance regraded and paved. It now is a splendid 70-foot boulevard—as far as it goes.

Failure to carry through the project to Ponce de Leon avenue, however, has largely defeated the purpose of the partial improvement.

There is no worse congestion of traffic in the city than at the corner of Ponce de Leon avenue and Peachtree. Automobiles from Druid Hills, Emory university, Decatur, Morningside and half a dozen other important sections pour into the Peachtree traffic here at all hours of the day and there is an almost constant traffic tangle.

Were Courtland street properly graded, widened and paved from Ponce de Leon, a large part of this traffic would turn south on Courtland from Ponce de Leon, thus relieving part of the congestion at the Peachtree corner one block west.

When the Courtland street project was first undertaken, in 1926, it was understood from both city and county authorities, that the work would be carried through to Ponce de Leon. Sufficient appropriation only was made, however, to carry it as far north as Forrest avenue.

That part of the undertaking was finished in 1927.

In January, 1928, both city and county passed appropriations for completion of the project, with assurances that it would be done as soon as possible and carried through without delay.

However, to date there has been no start. The grade survey, it is understood, has been recently changed, reducing the maximum fills from nine to six feet, thus eliminating much work and expense.

The Courtland street improvement should be carried through to completion at Ponce de Leon just as quickly as possible. It is an operation of civic surgery which is needed at once to relieve the traffic pressure of the city arteries.

HOOVER STRUGGLES.

Press dispatches have told daily for a week the same story about the activities of the republican candidate. According to the reporters Mr. Hoover, for a week at least, has been daily struggling with the speech he is to make next in his campaign.

And, when you think it over, it is not surprising.

For it must take remarkable effort and ingenuity to compose an hour's speech which will avoid definite statements as does Mr. Hoover.

The contrast between Mr. Hoover and Mr. Smith grows with the campaign. Mr. Smith, on his western tour, spoke three times a week and aroused the enthusiasm of the nation each time. Mr. Hoover, speaking once in two weeks, offered his hearers a smooth flow of words, but a minimum of positive statement.

Smith has something to say and is not afraid to say it. Hoover is burdened with a party whose record of oil and official laxity is such that he must keep silent even though silence be mute confession.

It is hard to talk and say nothing. Therefore give credit to Mr. Hoover and pity him as he struggles over his campaign orations.

A typical American is one who will quarrel to defend prohibition when he has a cellar full of choice pre-war liquors.

Florida resents the headline in a northern paper which read: "First of Winter Weather Sending Wild Geese South."

Senator Borah and Mrs. Willebrandt are spitting fire. One is a fire brand and the other a wille brandt.

In our discussions with Mexico over international affairs we can expect President Gil to come to the p'int.

The old-fashioned man who drank from the saucer is now drinking from the bottle.

The Indians will be entitled to vote in November. Lo, the poor Indian!

Hoover tells us that we have now the greatest per capita wealth in the world. Try and get it!

It is generally conceded that whoever founded New York city located it pretty close to Washington.

Mr. Hoover will find that one cannot stop the flood of votes for Smith by sandbagging the people.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Anderson the Prophet.

Traveling recently from Friederichshafen to Basle, after viewing the trial flights of the dirigible "Count Zeppelin," I picked some notoriously slow night train, consisting of five day coaches. I was the only passenger and the night was cold. After the brilliantly illuminated industrial region around Schaffhausen, the scenery was shrouded in blackness. On a bench opposite I discovered a cheap German edition of Andersen's fairy tales. One could do worse for pastime. Still full of the sight of the silver-hued Zeppelin, I was not a little surprised to read in Andersen: "The airship was full of passengers. Not a single place unoccupied, for the air voyage is infinitely more rapid than the boat-trip. Europe is already in sight. Ireland lies just below, but the passengers all are asleep. They will be awakened in a half-hour when England comes in sight. There are indeed some things worth seeing in Europe,' says a young American lady to her companion as she awakens. 'Thanks to the airship we will be able to see it all in a week'" Andersen wrote this 70 years ago. That is to say long before Jules Verne foresaw extensive air travel. And Andersen foresaw even more: Americans who go to see Europe in a week. For there are indeed some of our compatriots who believe that this can be done.

Order.

The blessings of Fascism are reaching Tripoli, the Italian North Africa colony. Arabs, Jews, Fellahs and Bedouins have been ordered to learn the fascist national hymn by heart, or failing that, for even the masters of the world at Rome realize that an Arab's tongue might have difficulties in rolling out the mellow intonations of Dante's tongue, they must learn to recognize the hymn when it is played. That is to say they must jump up and stand to attention, leave their game of checkers, abandon their comfortable nargileh and coffee cups and raise their hand smartly in the old Roman salute. News comes from Tripoli that the Jews are doing fairly well. But the Arabs can't get on to the tune. As far as the Sons of Ishmael are concerned the Italian bands may as well play Turkey in the Straw or anything else. They cannot or perhaps will not recognize the martial strains from Rome. Word has gone out from Rome to the governors of Tripoli to persevere. "There must be order!" "Try a little castor oil and do not forget you carry clubs," reads the instruction to local fascists.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

A GOOD FIRST AID DISINFECTANT.

An antiseptic may be very efficient, in laboratory tests, and yet of little or no value when applied to the human tissues in actual practice. An antiseptic, by the way, is a substance or agent that merely retards the multiplication of germs—it doesn't necessarily kill or destroy germs. A germicide kills or destroys germs. A disinfectant is not so sharply defined, but it is fair to say it may be either an antiseptic or a germicide that frees a wound or surface or any mass of matter from infection, from putrefaction, or rather from the germs that cause putrefaction, inflammation, suppuration.

Common tincture of iodine (iodine) is still, in my somewhat prejudiced opinion, the best first aid disinfectant we can use in the treatment of minor wounds or injuries. When I last discussed this question here I spilled the beans by naming a modern proprietary antiseptic or disinfectant that threatened to take the place of iodin in first aid kits and domestic surgery generally and expressing my persistent preference for plain old tincture of iodin. As though that were not enough to convict me of lese majesty I had to give my reasons for the choice, namely, that the proprietary article was too expensive, that it stained skin and clothing and dressings in an unsightly way, and that I believed it was too poisonous, since it contained mercury.

In the same talk I admitted that the proprietary antiseptic is less painful, smarts or bites less than iodin does, in a fresh wound. This feature, I find, appeals strongly to popular preference, and I suppose it would appeal to me if I had the wound and no inside information on the therapeutic merits of the remedies other than the interest exploiting the latter might wish me to have.

I quickly learned that I was wrong when I opined that the proprietary antiseptic or disinfectant was "poisonous" because it is a mercury compound; the manufacturer placed in my hands ample and authoritative evidence of competent experts that the preparation is not poisonous, even when an overdose is taken internally. I was glad to publish here an acknowledgement of my mistake, and a correction that satisfied the manufacturer of the proprietary antiseptic in question.

Now I hope to tell you, folks, that I still prefer an immediate application, swabbing or lavage, let us say, with ordinary tincture of iodin, as the best first aid disinfection of any wound I may happen to suffer myself. I know this smarts and bites for a moment, but what of that?

Here are some conclusions drawn from recent laboratory tests of this proprietary disinfectant and of iodine by a surgeon of the medical corps of the United States army:

(The proprietary antiseptic—I shall not name it this time) is not effective in disinfection of the unbroken skin, when applied in 2 per cent solution in water. A 2 per cent alcohol-acetone-water solution, and a 5 per cent alcoholic solution of the same proprietary disinfectant proved a feeble bactericide, as compared with iodine, on the unbroken skin. Tincture of iodine (U. S. P.) proved far superior as a disinfectant on the unbroken skin.

There Can Be No Equality or Freedom While Authority Plays Favorites

By Robert Quillen

Men may dream of equality, but mankind is divided into classes. One class is composed of those who have and the other of those who have not. Both are class-conscious. It always has been so; it always will be so until Utopia is established; and neither the smooth-tongued orators of democracy nor the long-haired apostles of brotherhood can change the fact by denying it.

And the class on top, whether sweet with perfume or sour with sweat, is a tyrant and a bully.

Yesterday a few mounted noblemen came upon a party of drunken peasants on a Russian highway and one of the great ones muttered: "Ride them down."

Later, when the scenes had been shifted, one of the noblemen stood before a tribunal of peasants whose hands dripped red.

"Have him shot," said one of the judges.

"But why?" asked the nobleman.

"Because," said the judge, "your finger nails are clean and you are educated and rich and feel superior. Every dog has his day; this is ours."

Or observe the Anglo-Saxon—chief champion of human liberty.

Yesterday a nobleman rode across the sweet fields of England in company with mounted servants. The party found their right-of-way disputed by a multitude of the lowly, who had gathered for a picnic.

The great one turned in his saddle. "Whip me these vermin to their kennels," said he.

Now the world has changed. The "vermin" have gone to school. They know more; they fare better; and they are more civilized than the nobleman was.

But class consciousness remains. The policeman recognizes the truck driver and the laborer in a flivver as men of his own kind and gives them right-of-way. But when a "swell" car appears, the sting of a lash endured for a thousand years calls for petty vengeance. His uplifted hand warns the rich to swallow their pride, and the glitter in his eyes dares them to show resentment.

No delight known to mortals equals that of lording it over those we envy. The ass that kicked the sick lion may have been a poor sport, but he was true to nature.

While human nature remains unchanged, class will hate class—$4 a day will hate $50,000 a year. And the class momentarily in power will bully the other, and every ordinary mortal who has authority will abuse it.

And this explains why eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Every man or group given an inch of authority will take two—and will increase in power and arrogance until removed by rebellion.

Men who would be free must delegate authority sparingly. They must watch for and punish the first sign of arrogance—in policemen, dry agents, judges, governors or any other.

When authority is left uncurbed, there is freedom for only one class at a time.

TENNESSEANS ACCORD SMITH BIG WELCOME

Byrns, of the Nashville congressional district; Senators Kenneth McKellar and L. D. Tyson, Representative Finis Garrett, the democratic leader in the house of representatives, and Governor Henry H. Horton.

The governor arrived at the auditorium at 8:26 p. m. The crowd got its first cue of his approach by the flares of photographers through the windows.

All Stand in Honor.

Everybody was up and started shouting as soon as the nominee appeared on the right of the platform. He was escorted by two policemen who had some trouble forcing him through the jam.

The governor walked to the front of the platform, waving his brown derby. The Confederate veterans waved the banner of the southland, the band played "Dixie," and the crowd yelled again.

He was introduced in a few words by Governor Horton, who referred to him as the "most popular man in the United States today."

"I simply came to tell you that Al is here and to say to you to tell him that Tennessee is a democratic state."

The governor began his address by saying original plans had called for his passing through Tennessee, shaking hands and waving the brown derby.

"Keep waving it, Al," somebody shouted and the audience roared.

The crowd cheered again a minute later when the nominee referred to the state as the home of Andrew Jackson.

Attack G. O. P. on Farm.

The governor opened up immediately on utterances by both Hoover and Curtis on farm relief and the tariff in connection with that subject.

The governor asked if the tariff were the solution of the farm problem what was the administration waiting for. He argued that the republicans knew this would do no good on products which had an exportable surplus.

Punctuating his arguments with pointed jabs at political foes, he contended that President Coolidge had been able to tear down but not build up. He referred to the president's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill and argued Mr. Coolidge was open to censure for what he contended was a failure to present a farm relief plan.

The governor was cheered again when he assailed utterances by Mr. Hoover on water power development and accused him of having indulged in vague generalities. He then said Coolidge had vetoed the plan suggested by congress for dealing with the Muscle Shoals problem.

No Immigration Increase.

He argued that no one could blame the president for that because it was a matter between him and his conscience. He added, however, that the president could be blamed for not proposing a plan of his own.

On immigration, the speaker asked why Mr. Hoover had said that he did not favor an increase in immigration. The governor said he could see no reason for this unless Hoover sought to imply that he did.

Reiterating that he likewise did not favor letting down the bars, the democratic candidate said that the democratic platform also declared against this.

Turning to prohibition, the governor said he suggested an application of the old Jeffersonian principle of state rights to the question.

Quoting the republican candidate as saying that prohibition was intended to protect the American home, he said he hoped no one thought that he was not interested in home.

"I have as much interest in an American home as anybody."

Nashville, Tenn., October 13.—(AP) The full text of the prepared speech of Governor Smith here tonight follows:

"Since early Thursday morning of this week I have been traveling through our southland. Campaigning is no new thing with me, but I can say honestly and sincerely that in all of the years that I have been conducting campaigns I have never received a more hearty, or, I might even say, a more affectionate welcome than I have received from the people in the south. At every railroad station and at every large city I have been greeted with an enthusiasm that gives me a new confidence in the righteousness of the cause that I am fighting for.

"In accordance with the program of the national committee, my next speech is to be at Louisville, Ky. I was to pass through the state of Tennessee, but I did not feel like leaving the state that gave to the nation that great leader of democracy, Andrew Jackson, without saying something in appreciation of the warm welcome that I have received.

No Answer to Farm Speech.

"In Omaha a little over three weeks ago, with a national radio hookup, I outlined the democratic attitude of farm relief. I contrasted the platforms of the two parties, and the speeches of acceptance of the two candidates, and I definitely impressed upon the people that a speedy constructive program of farm relief could only come from the democratic party.

"Republican orators, the republican national committee, and for that matter, the republican candidate himself, have been very hard pressed to answer my Omaha speech on farm relief.

"Senator Curtis, the candidate for vice president on the republican ticket, takes a chance with it, and in his speech at St. Paul he says:

"'Tariff protection on farm products is an important means by which to relieve the present depression in agriculture and to place the farmer in a position of economic equality with our other industries.'

Curtis Admits Inadequacy.

"The senator keeps repeating that, with the hope that if he says it often enough somebody will begin to believe it. He knows as well as I do that the tariff standing by itself is not the remedy for the present depressed condition in agriculture. That he recognizes this to be the fact is shown by another sentence from his same speech when he says:

"'But in considering tariff rates as a means for improving the problems of agriculture, the danger of undue reliance on the effectiveness of this method must be avoided.'

"What does he mean by that? Since when has he discovered that? The republican party four years ago promised measures that would put agriculture on an economic equality with industry. It is a matter of history that nothing was done to carry out that promise for four long years. For that reason we see the same promise repeated in this year's platform, word for word, sentence for sentence; and at the end of four years Senator Curtis volunteers the information that we must not put undue reliance upon the effectiveness of the tariff.

Blows Hot And Cold.

"That is not in keeping with the candidate of his party, Mr. Hoover, who distinctly says in his speech of acceptance that the tariff is the foundation of farm relief.

"Senator Curtis knows what the farmer needs. One method calculated to bring about economic equality with industry was suggested in the form of a legislative enactment. Senator Curtis voted for it when it was before the senate and voted against it after it was vetoed by the president. In other words, he was with the farmer one day and against him the next. He could not have been right both times. He, above all men, is in no position to promote the interest of the candidate of his party, because his own record on farm relief does not stand the test.

"The republican candidate for president, speaking in Tennessee a short time ago, spoke about the far reaching and specific proposal made by his political party on behalf of the farmers. I read the speech carefully, and I failed to see wherein he makes any definite suggestion to meet the difficulties that the farmer and the cotton grower must overcome in order to share in the general prosperity that the republican party claims to have brought to the country.

Hoover Promises Nothing.

"He repeats the language of his speech of acceptance about farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporation intended, as he claims, to protect the farmer from depressions and demoralization of summer and periodic surpluses; and while he definitely says that he does not propose a subsidy or a fee or a tax upon the farmer, he speaks about clothing the federal farm board with power and resources with which to back up farmers' cooperatives. No mention is made by him of what the resources are. No proposal is made that is to allow for not only the periodical and the summer surpluses but for the annual surpluses in crop which, being in excess of domestic consumption and offered in a domestic market, fix the price of the whole crop. He fails to understand that the great fundamental principle of control of the exportable surplus is the prime solution of the problem.

"This great principle is lost sight of, not only in the plan advanced by the candidate but in the platform of the republican party; and he in turn, following the lead of Senator Curtis, repeats the time-worn language of economic equality as between agriculture and industry. If that means anything, to my way of thinking, it means making effective the tariff for agriculture as it is effective for industry. That can only be done by control of the exportable surplus; and unless the cost of disposing of that surplus is charged back upon the crops benefited, the republican candidate cannot in truth say that there is to be no subsidy, no fee or no tax upon the farmer.

Farm Issue Greatest.

"Never in the history of political campaigning has an issue been as closely drawn as the one affecting farm relief. The democratic party in its platform and myself in my speech of acceptance have definitely laid down first the recognition of the principle, and, second, the promise to work out the mechanics necessary to carry it into effect. On the other hand, neither in its platform nor in the speech of acceptance of its candidate, nor in anything that the republican orators have so far said, does the republican party suggest even the basis of a plan calculated to bring about the necessary relief, and the farmers of the country must look to the democratic party if they are to be relieved from some of the burdens of the situation in which they find themselves.

"Let me quote the republican president on the farm question. Speaking about it in his message to congress in 1926, he referred to the burden of debts and taxes resting upon the shoulders of the farmer, too heavy for him to carry, and concluded by saying:

"'If a sound solution of a permanent nature can be found for this problem the congress ought not to hesitate to adopt it.'

"Congress sought and offered to the president a solution. Senator Curtis originally voted for it. The president vetoed it, and it is a matter of history and record that he offered nothing in its place, although he admitted in the same message that the subject was given more attention by the federal government than was given to any other subject.

G. O. P. Hostility Continues.

"The republican candidate, known to be the president's chief adviser upon this subject, in one part of his speech of acceptance, approves of the Coolidge policies and in another part promises farm relief; and in Tennessee he said:

"'We must continue our endeavor to restore economic equality to those farm families who have lagged behind in the march of progress.'

"If the endeavors of the past are continued as promised by Mr. Hoover, the farmer has nothing to hope for. I know, if I were a farmer, that is the way I would be compelled to take it, unless I were ready to admit that I have no understanding of the English language.

"There is no question of such far-reaching importance to the people of this country today as the development of electrical energy from falling water, commonly referred to as water power. It is the last of our great natural resources and it is threatened with invasion at the hands of the power trust and private monopoly, that would use it for private profit and for private gain. Early in this campaign I spoke about talking plainly to the people. In my speech at Denver over two weeks ago I made a definite, clean-cut, concise declaration of what I believe to be the proper public policy with regard to the development of public water powers.

For Power Control.

"I said that they should be developed by the government, if under government control, by a state if under state control, or by a group of states, if under such control. I have been patiently waiting, as must also be the people of the country, for a declaration from the republican candidate of just where he stands with regard to the ownership and control of the great publicly owned water powers of the country.

"I believe, and had the right to expect that, speaking in Tennessee, a state to be greatly benefited by public operation and control of Muscle Shoals, he would say something upon the subject that would give the American people an understanding of his attitude. To my great surprise, he did not even mention Muscle Shoals, but contented himself with the following general observation:

"'There are local instances where the government must enter the business field as a by-product of some great major purpose such as improvement in navigation, flood control, scientific research or national defense.'

"I do not know what he can mean by 'by-product,' unless it is the generation of hydro-electric energy.

"In another part of the speech he said that 'violation of public interest by individuals or corporations should not induce us to abandon progressive principles and substitute in their place deadly and destructive doctrines.'

Language Hiding Thought.

"I would like to know what Mr. Hoover means by 'deadly and destructive doctrines.' Does he refer to government ownership and control of water-power sites? If so, why not say it? What is to be gained by clothing it in language that the man on the street is unable to understand? Is public ownership and public development of water power deadly? Is it a destructive doctrine? If so, why not let Mr. Hoover come right out and say 'I believe in leasing or in selling or in disposing of, to private corporations for private development and for private profit, the great water-power resources that belong to all the people?'

"That would define the issue. But why evade it? Why conceal it behind a wall of high-sounding phrases that leave in the minds of so many thousands of our people the element of doubt as to his exact position on this issue?

"Mr. Hoover found that his reference to this problem was considered to be so vague and ambiguous that he subsequently felt obliged to issue two statements regarding Muscle Shoals, and, if anything at all happened, his position became more involved than ever.

"I have clearly defined my attitude. It will be found in my speech of acceptance.

Quotes Coolidge on Shoals.

"So far as Muscle Shoals is concerned, I said in my speech at Denver that I believe that the government should continue in full and complete development of that plant, retaining it under government ownership, operation and control. While it is true that it was a war measure and its purpose was to produce nitrates for explosives, the by-product of electrical energy can be used to promote industry and give cheap and reasonable rates for home, small store and farm consumption.

"The republican candidate for president has promised to follow the Coolidge policy. That policy is best set forth in his message to the sixty-ninth congress in 1925, when he said:

"'The problem of Muscle Shoals seems to me to have assumed a place out of all proportion with its real importance. It probably does not represent in market value much more than a first-class battleship, yet it has been discussed in congress over a period of years and for months at a time.'

"Let me add, 'and disposed of by congress.' But the disposition, being favorable to the rank and file of the people, it met with executive veto. And with that policy Mr. Hoover says he agrees.

Will Complete Project.

"As against that, I promise the completion of the development under government ownership and control, which would reclaim to the government some fair revenue from the enormous expenditure already made for its improvement. When completed, the nation will be reimbursed, agriculture will receive the benefit of cheap nitrate production for fertilizer purposes and the surplus water power can be distributed fairly to the people of the ten states which this plant could serve at rates which should remain under the control of the government and be fair and equitable.

"The people of the country have their choice between my clear, clean-cut policy and the clear, clean-cut, straightforward policy of the democratic platform and the evasion, ducking and dodging of the republican platform and the republican candidate.

"While I have the republican candidate's speech before me, let me nail down hard and fast an old-time republican campaign trick. Mr. Hoover says:

"'I do not favor an increase in immigration.'

"Let me say, most emphatically, neither do I and neither does the democratic platform.

"He says: 'At the same time we must humanize the laws but only within the present quotas.' That is exactly what I say, and it is exactly what the democratic platform says. What is the necessity for the republican candidate to make that statement? Nobody disagrees with him.

"Reading further in the speech of Mr. Hoover I find that he says:

"'The purpose of the 18th amendment is to protect the American home.'

"In his speech of acceptance he said that he looked back with satisfaction, the republican record during the last seven and a half years.

Prohibition Creates Lawlessness

"In view of that record, can he conscientiously say that the republican administration has so enforced the eighteenth amendment as to make it any degree whatever of protection to the home? In view of the record I laid before the people in Milwaukee a little over a week ago, how can any candidate for any position on the republican ticket speak about the sacred obligation to secure honest enforcement?

"The republican party has made prohibition the football of politics. A former republican enforcement agent referred to it as the new political pork barrel. Graft, corruption, bribery on a wholesale scale, have been the history of attempted enforcement under republican auspices. The record shows that we have never had prohibition in this country in the sense that hard liquor was banished from it. There is as much if not more liquor in this country today than there was in the pre-prohibition days. We have not achieved temperance under the present system. On the contrary, the widespread disregard of the prohibition law is today undermining respect for all law.

Will Protect the Home.

"The republican candidate himself admits the abuses that have grown up around it; but instead of suggesting a remedy, which he is either unwilling or unable to do, he expresses just the faint hope for its future success.

"I have definite ideas about the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law and, as a husband and a father, I have as much interest in protecting the American home as any man in the United States. I ask that the prohibition question be treated in accordance with the Jeffersonian theory of states' rights. This great section of the country through which I have been traveling for the past two days during all of its history has been devoted to the Jeffersonian principle of states' rights. Why not apply it to this question? I think you must admit the great difficulty of securing cooperation from the rank and file of our people for a reasonable, fair and just enforcement of the prohibition law when large numbers of the people of so many states are out of tune and out of sympathy with the law.

Shoe on Another Foot.

"If you have any doubt about this consult the popular referendums that have been had in so many states that stand in opposition to the existing prohibition statutes, and ask yourselves this question: What would you or the people of any dry state think about a proposal to amend the constitution to forbid you to enact prohibition laws? You would resent any such proposal, and justly so. That is just the way the people of other states feel about the eighteenth amendment in its present form.

"In my speech of acceptance I laid down a clear, definite program. In the first place, I said that I do not believe the present definition of what constitutes an intoxicant is an honest one. I simply ask that congress, after proper advice and after proper medical and scientific research, provide a definition of an intoxicant more in keeping with the fact and the truth. I firmly believe that a great deal of the poisonous hard liquor that we now have in this country would be driven out of existence if people who desired to do so would, under appropriate restrictions, be permitted to use beverages not in fact intoxicating.

"In the second place, I said that I personally believed in an amendment to the eighteenth amendment, which would give to each individual state itself, after approval by a referendum popular vote of its people, the right wholly within its borders to import, manufacture or cause to be manufactured, and sell alcoholic beverages, the sale to be made only by the state itself and not for consumption in any public place. That would mean that it would be impossible to return to the old conditions of the saloon, despised, and rightly so, by the American people.

U. S. to Protect States.

"Such an amendment would permit a dry state to be as dry as it liked. It would preserve for the dry states all benefits now growing from national prohibition and would give them the benefit of a national law on the subject.

"It would always remain the duty of the federal government, under my proposal, to protect states desiring to remain dry from the introduction or importation into them of alcoholic beverages. At the same time, it would permit a state which, after a vote of its people, did not wish to be dry, to dispense alcoholic beverages under the strict control and limitation that I have outlined.

"If that is not good, old-fashioned, honest democracy, if that is not in keeping with the Jeffersonian theory and principle of states' rights, then I do not understand what those words mean.

"I stated in my speech of acceptance that with respect to prohibition the president had two duties imposed upon him by the constitution. First, to recommend to congress what in his opinion would promote the best interests and the welfare of the country. I have indicated briefly here tonight, and more fully in my speech of acceptance and in my speech at Milwaukee, the recommendations that I propose to make to the congress on the subject of national prohibition.

Will Enforce to Limit.

"The second duty imposed upon the president is to enforce the law as he finds it. When I told the American people that if I were elected president and, with one hand on the Bible and the other hand reaching up to Heaven, I promised that I would faithfully execute the office of president of the United States and to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States, you may take my word for it that I shall make that assurance good, and shall wipe out the corruption and the bribery that have been so widespread in connection with prohibition enforcement during the past seven and a half years of republican administration.

"I am glad to be with you tonight and pleased to have this opportunity to talk to you. On the few issues that I could touch upon I have talked plainly. That was my purpose in the beginning of the campaign. That is what I have been trying to get my opponent to do, upon the theory that when the American people make their decision they will make it with the full knowledge of all the facts. And if that kind of a campaign can be conducted throughout the length and breadth of this land, I have not in my mind any doubt but what the democratic party on the sixth of November will ride to a great national victory."

SOUTH ROARS WELCOME TO GOVERNOR SMITH.

Governor Smith's Special Train En Route to Nashville, Tenn., October 12. (AP)—Invading the debatable political border state of Tennessee, Governor Smith today received a roaring welcome from a huge throng at Chattanooga, made an informal speech in appreciation of the state's greeting and moved on to the state capital of Nashville for a five-hour stay and a more formal campaign address touching upon the water power resources of the south.

The visit to the state capital was arranged as the largest ceremony of the day for the democratic presidential candidate during his campaign swing through Tennessee. Besides the address, plans for which were announced only today, the nominee faced a program which included a parade and the paying of tributes to two former presidents of the United States by laying wreaths at the foot of the statue of Andrew Jackson and on the tomb of James K. Polk.

To Speak in Louisville.

Tomorrow night at Louisville, Governor Smith will deliver what now will be the second formal address of his ten-day tour.

While journeying through Tennessee today between Chattanooga and Nashville, Governor Smith's special train cut into northern Alabama, one of the normally democratic "solid south" states and the nominee at a brief stop at Stevenson, Ala., greeted from the rear platform a group of well wishers.

Another crowd welcomed him as his train slowed down to pass through Bridgeport, Ala. Two other short halts of the train were made at Tullahoma and Murfreesboro, Tenn., en route to Nashville.

"This is the first time that I have been in Tennessee," Governor Smith in his speech at the Chattanooga Memorial auditorium told an audience that packed the building. His voice also was carried to a crowd outside through amplifiers.

"Now let me say to the people of the southland, including Tennessee, that I have enjoyed my trip here. I appreciate with all a man could have in his heart the warmth of your greeting, the hospitality of your people. I fele deeply grateful for it and very thankful."

Religious Question.

The religious question was brought into the open in the meeting by Judge M. M. Allison, of Chattanooga, who introduced the candidate. Relating that a former Tennessee senator in recently introducing Senator Borah, of Idaho, declared that "the Protestant state of Tennessee would not support Governor Smith." Judge Allison said:

"Tennessee Protestant democrats will not be swayed by bigotry and hypocrisy and will carry the democratic presidential nominee into the white house."

Governor Smith referred to his republican opponent, Herbert Hoover, when he declared political campaigns are usually "in the nature of a debate."

"But I do not hear anything from my opponent," he added. "He only speaks every two weeks. This would not be so bad if you could find anything to argue about with him when he does speak."

The candidate declared that only since he had been nominated for the presidency had he been able to travel about the country.

First Chance to Travel.

"I think I should like to let you in on a little secret," he explained to his listeners. "I was a full grown man with a full grown family before I got outside of New York state for a very good reason. I never had the time. I cannot remember that I have ever had an extended vacation. Twenty-five odd years ago I started to work for the state of New York. I have been at it steadily right up to today. I had a little vacation for a while as a truckman, and I ask you to take it from me in good faith, because that is the way I offer it, a truckman's life is much easier than the life of the governor of New York.

"It is a steady, all the year round job. You never get away from it. And if it were not for national conventions of the democratic party I doubt that I would be able to stand on this platform and say that I saw any considerable part of my own country."

The arrangements for his speech at Chattanooga came as almost a complete surprise to Governor Smith. He had contemplated making an informal reply to the city's welcome but local democratic leaders told him at the last minute of the extensive arrangements made at the auditorium. The nominee then readily agreed to deliver a brief talk.

Makes Short Speech.

The local party leaders had contemplated an address of some length but Governor Smith refused to accede to the plan, because it was too great a strain in view of his formal campaign address of an hour or more already on the program of his trip.

The demonstration at Chattanooga was one of the heartiest accorded the candidate on his southern foray. Democratic local chieftains pointed out that he was received in Hamilton county, which in the past two presidential campaigns gave a plurality of several hundred votes to the republican national ticket.

Governor Smith received numerous reports about the political situation in Tennessee and Alabama during his day's journey. In general the reports were very favorable for a democratic victory in November in both states.

Joined by Leaders.

Among the Tennessee leaders who rode on the candidate's special train through the state were Senators L. D. Tyson and Kenneth D. McKellar, Representatives Finis J. Garrett, E. L. Davis and Samuel McReynolds, and Governor Henry H. Horton. Representative Joseph W. Byrns had accompanied him from New York.

The member of congress from the Muscle Shoals district in Alabama, Representative E. B. Almon, and Representative E. E. Oliver, of the same state, also joined the train in Tennessee.

"I am confident that Tennessee will give Governor Smith a normal majority," Senator McKellar declared, "and I have so advised the governor. I have been campaigning on the whole ticket for more than three weeks and have visited all sections of the state. There is some dissension among democrats in the cities and towns but the country districts are overwhelmingly democratic as usual, save in the first and second congressional districts, which will probably give Mr. Hoover normal majorities. However, the democratic vote in middle and west Tennessee will overcome these majorities in eastern Tennessee."

FOOT OF SNOW GRIPS NORTHERN ROCKIES

Cold Wave Wreaks Havoc With Automobile Tourists.

Denver, October 12.—(AP)—Winter gripped the northern Rocky mountain region today wreaking havoc with automobile tourists, delaying the air mail and covering parts of Montana and Wyoming with snow more than a foot deep.

The cold wave was spreading east and west of the continental divide, and even brought snow flurries to southern California.

More than 50 automobile tourists, marooned on the Lincoln highway, were rescued early today as the result of the heroism of an unidentified woman who pushed through to Rock Springs, Wyo., and formed a relief party to go to the aid of cars stalled between Baxter Station and Bittercreek, Wyo.

A score of volunteers in trucks fought their way through a blinding snowstorm to the tourists. The blizzard blocked the highway and caused intense suffering from cold. The rescuers worked for more than four hours to extricate the cars.

Frank Meecham, Salt Lake City, said he had given up hope when the rescue party arrived, and he was in a serious condition when he was pulled from the drifts early this morning.

C. Stankey, Detroit, en route to Australia, narrowly escaped freezing to death. He was found walking aimlessly down the snow-driven road, and was so benumbed by the cold that a package he carried had to be pried from his hand.

Wyoming bore the brunt of the cold wave offensive on autumn's weakening ramparts. Mail planes were held up at Rock Springs and their cargoes sent on by trains which, themselves, were delayed by the storm. Eighteen inches of snow fell at Lander.

Freezing temperatures in Montana were accompanied by snow in some districts. While temperatures were lower in New Mexico the weather was mild. Nevada and Utah received snow in widely scattered sections.

ZEPPELIN ATTAINS SPEED OF 80 MILES

night was far over the Atlantic bound for the United States on a course that may carry her past Bermuda with but little likelihood of reaching Lakehurst, N. J., before Monday noon.

Thirty-two and a half hours after putting out of Friedrichshafen the Graf Zeppelin was approximately 60 miles west of the island of Madeira, steering west-northwest, a direction that would carry her midway between the courses to the Azores and Bermuda. At that time it was estimated that the entire journey would take her about 106 hours. If necessary the Graf Zeppelin should be able to stay in the air 126 hours. Before the ship left, it was estimated that the trip should take between 80 and 85 hours. The ZR-E, now the Los Angeles, in 1924, made the trip in 81 hours.

The hazardous voyage of Columbus and his landing in the new world 436 years ago today was recalled to the minds of aeronautic officials in Berlin poring over the charts of the zeppelin's flight and it was generally felt that hearts less stout than that of Dr. Hugo Eckener and his crew would probably have turned back for Friedrichshafen instead of sailing the Graf Zeppelin farther and farther south in search of better weather conditions.

Expected Monday Noon.

That the Graf Zeppelin can reach Lakehurst before Monday noon is generally doubted in aeronautical circles in Germany. While weather is reported good over the stretch between the Azores and Bermuda it is likely that adverse winds will impede her progress near the American coast.

Just what course Dr. Eckener planned to follow appeared dependent upon weather forecasts that he requested both from the Azores and the United States. This morning he notified Friedrichshafen that wind conditions made it advisable for him to strike for Bermuda, going south of the Azores, and then to proceed up the American coast. In fact, he left the normal course between Gibraltar and the Azores early this morning and went as far south as Madeira island. He passed over Funchal, Madeira, at 8:30 a. m., eastern standard time. A mailbag for the German consul was dropped and was found in the garden of a casino.

Passes Madeira.

At Madeira the air liner turned slightly toward the north and at 10:30 a. m., eastern standard time, she was sighted by the steamship Euclid going in a west-northwest direction. If continued, this course would carry her midway between the Azores and Bermuda. Horta advices indicated that the dirigible was heading for those islands and a sharp watch was maintained tonight for the great silver ship of the air.

While Dr. Eckener may have found it wise to head for the Azores instead of speeding directly from Madeira to Bermuda, it was believed in Berlin that he might merely desire to pick up weather reports there before deciding definitely on his further route. Conditions at Bermuda were favorable and promised to continue favorable Sunday when the airship might be expected in that vicinity.

Little has drifted through the air of the twenty passengers aboard the ship, the only message being one picked up in the Azores saying that they were exceedingly air sick.

Vessels Report Sighting.

The progress of the huge air liner has been steadily charted by steamships which sighted her soon after she left the coast of Europe this morning. The first vessel to report her to the Associated Press was the tanker Gymeric, about fifty miles west of the Atlantic coast of Spanish Morocco. Soon after the steamship Virgilio sighted her in the same vicinity.

Then came a dispatch from the steamship Gloucester Castle, about 150 miles northeast of Madeira, and another one from the steamship Trevalgan in the same neighborhood.

The steamship Euclid several hours later reported sighting the airship about 60 miles west of Madeira. This message said that the weather was fine and the Zeppelin was making good speed. The visibility was good and the wind was light from the west-southwest.

This was the most favorable report received concerning the progress of the flight and suggested the possibility that Dr. Eckener had passed the worst of the unfavorable winds and would be able to eat up the miles more rapidly.

Indian Summer Due To Remain For Few Days

Still more Indian summer weather is predicted for Atlanta and vicinity today by C. F. von Herrmann, head of the United States weather bureau here. "Fair and continued warm" is his forecast, with a temperature range about like Friday, or varying between 59 and 80.

No cold weather is in sight here for some time to come in spite of wintry storms in the middle west, as it will take many days for these to affect Atlanta, he stated.

WRIGHT IN DEFENSE OF G. O. P. CORRUPTION

Marietta, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Attacking in most bitter and scathing terms the democratic nominee for president, Barry Wright, of Rome, spoke to a crowded assembly tonight at the courthouse. The meeting had been widely advertised and hand bills, announcing the speaking, scattered broacast over the county.

Prior to Wright's speech, which occupied nearly two hours, Mrs. Marvin Williams, of Atlanta, spoke briefly and stated that the democratic party had been put on notice, even before the Houston convention that if a wet was nominated, the south would bolt the democratic party. Now democrats are attempting to throw up a smoke screen and ask us to remain faithful to the party of our fathers of 60 years ago without any regard as to what the party of today is doing, she stated.

Mrs. Ralph Northcutt, a member of the Georgia delegation to the Houston convention, reviewed the 1924 convention at Madison Square Garden and denounced the attitude of Tammany followers toward the Georgia delegation.

Barry Wright launched forth into a bitter tirade against Tammany hall and stated that the graft and misrule of the Vare machine in Pennsylvania and other republican states were eclipsed by Tammany. He vigorously denounced Georgia political leaders, Senators George, Harris, and others, and the two Atlanta newspapers.

LEADERS OF UNION GATHER TO RATIFY COAL WAGE SCALE

Cheyenne, Wyo., October 12.—(AP) Officials of the United Mine Workers, district 22, and of the district coal operators' association were called to meet here today to formally ratify a new coal mining wage scale reached yesterday by the joint scale committee.

The new wage scale, which would expire June 30, 1932, provides a basic day wage of $6.72, said to be the highest scale made with the United Mine Workers of America since the Jacksonville agreement.

The wage scale, arrived at after five weeks of parleying, affects miners throughout the state.

NEW AMBASSADOR

Katsuji Debuchi, Japan's New Envoy, Reaches Coast

San Francisco, October 12.—(AP)—Katsuji Debuchi, Japan's new ambassador to the United States, arrived here today on the liner Shinyo Maru from Japan en route to Washington to take up his duties. Accompanying Debuchi was his wife, daughter, Masaru, 16, and son, Takako, 14. The children will attend school near the national capitol.

The new ambassador succeeds Isuneo Matsudaira.

CURTIS SHIFTS TOUR TO MID-WEST AREAS

Senator Greeted by Crowds at Several Stops in Ohio and Indiana.

En Route With Senator Curtis to Washington, Crestline, Ohio, October 12.—(AP)—Traveling to the eastern front for two weeks campaigning, Senator Charles Curtis, vice presidential nominee, put in his time crossing Indiana and Ohio today in preparing for his new assignment.

While crowds were out at several stops to greet him, the republican nominee saved his voice and instead of delivering any back platform addresses, devoted his time at the halting places to shaking hands with the numerous welcomers.

After a month in the west where he centered his talks on the farm relief question, Senator Curtis was busy today shaping up some addresses on the tariff, immigration and other subjects which he considers of interest in the east. He was happy over the receptions accorded him in the west and particularly in the northwest where he has been this week, declaring in a statement that "I feel confident that the central west and west will go republican overwhelmingly."

The senator gave this report to party leaders who met him in Chicago this morning. Representative Newton, director of the republican speakers' bureau, conferred with him there and tentative plans to have the nominee return to the middle west for the close of the campaign here were discussed.

Tomorrow the senator will be at his desk in Washington attending to senatorial duties and finishing plans for his eastern drive. Sunday night he will set out again in his private car, going to Raleigh, N. C., for a meeting Monday night and to Cumberland, Md., Tuesday.

Although the train schedule was not announced, the vice presidential nominee was met at Plymouth, Ind., and several Ohio cities by welcoming crowds. At Fort Wayne a party of friends boarded the train for the brief stop.

BARE UTILITIES FIGHT TO BEAT AMENDMENT

Washington, October 12.—(AP)—The record of the federal trade commission's power investigation was increased today with documents and testimony bearing on afafirs of the Oregon public utility information bureau and the Northwest Electric Light & Power association, both of which operate from Portland.

H. L. Walther, manager of the bureau, testified also concerning moves made by a utility committee distinct from his organization to defeat a proposed amendment to the state constitution authorizing the state to generate and transmit power. The campaign cost $29,677 he said, and the amendment was voted down at the polls "by about four to one." After this, he received several letters which he said gave him credit for the result.

Examined by Robert E. Healy, commission counsel, Walther said the weekly news service maintained by the information bureau had aided the campaign. Copies of the news releases sent out over a long period were introduced into the record, and that of February 4, 1928, said: "The prominence of Herbert Hoover as a candidate for the presidency gives to his views more than ordinary interest at this time." It added: "The present secretary of commerce in the cabinet of President Coolidge has made the following utterances on 'Our Government:'

"'Neither our national nor our state governments are planned or equipped for the task of government operation of utilities. The fathers purposely made our government to a different model, for a different task. They divided power and responsibility where business must concentrate them. They thought liberty and individual rights were worth safeguarding.'"

HURRICANE SHUTS HOTEL FOR FIRST TIME IN 30 YEARS

Palm Beach, Fla., October 12.—(AP) For the first time in its more than thirty years of colorful existence, the Royal Poinciana hotel, exclusive pioneer hotel on the shores of Lake Worth here, will not open this season because of hurricane damage.

Formal announcement that the hotel, the largest frame building of its kind in the world, would not open its doors when the annual winter treak of the southbound "four hundred" begins, was made late today by H. E. Bemis, vice president of the Florida East Coast Hotel company.

Watersoaked and damaged by the hurricane of September 16, the huge structure, famous the country over as a vacationing place for exclusive society sets, is in such a condition that it would be impossible to repair it for the coming season, Bemis said. Whether it will ever reopen, he added, is another matter, and one which company officials have not considered.

complete list of the properties held by Carnes on the day of his disappearance.

"Carnes had his holdings strung out over several states and it is almost impossible to get them all together in such a short time as we have had," Mr. Scott said. "I am going to inform the court that it will require several days more to permit us to furnish a complete list. I am sure that the court will have no objections."

Plans to rehabilitate permanently the financial structure of the mission board which was wrecked through Carnes alleged thefts were announced Friday by Louie D. Newton, editor of the Christian Index, official Baptist paper. Sunday, November 11, has been set aside as Baptist Honor day on which all members of the Southern Baptist convention are asked to make special contributions to refinance the treasury and to assist in meeting the obligations contracted by Carnes in the name of the mission board.

"The Baptist people have responded nobly to our appeal for assistance," Dr. Arthur J. Barton, office secretary of the board, said Friday. "We have obtained enough funds through special contributions to carry on temporarily and we hope on November 11 to obtain a sum large enough to assure permanent operation of the board and to assist in meeting our notes which banks, which Mr. Carnes sold and did not register among the obligations of the mission board."

the church, the pulpit, the mothers and the fathers who were deeply interested in the future welfare of their offerings. When they see this great reform threatening they have a right to come to its defense as a father has a right to come to the defense of his children who are threatened with slaughter. I hope they will come to its defense regardless of what the politicians have to say about it, or regardless of what the candidates have to say about it. It is their right and their duty to themselves, their country, their children and their God.

Defies Man With Lash.

"I defy and spurn the man who attempts to drive them with the party lash, who seeks to deter them upon the grounds of party regularity from the free exercise of their righteous convictions.

"If the democratic party shall now win a victory by compromising, bartering away and trading its principles for expediency sake that victory will be more disastrous than many defeats. Out of that victory will come party dissention and disruption and I fear permanent disintegration. It is to save the democratic party from such a fate that I am opposed to the election of Governor Smith. I am willing to cast my fortunes in the balance."

a declaration that they were democrats, are affiliated with the hybrid republican party."

"Mr. Barry Wright," continued Mr. Watkins, "is quoted as saying that 'Tammany methods are being adopted in Georgia.' Of course this is a mere political statement and probably the gentleman does not mean what he says nor do I believe that he and his associates who are trying to force democratic nominees to place their names on an anti-democratic ballot have fully considered the moral issue involved. They are proposing to place a false label on a ticket.

"It has also been held by courts in several states that if a man, the nominee of one party, permits his name to be put on the ticket of another party, he resigns his nomination. Those democrats nominated for offices in the state by the democratic party could not permit their names on an anti-democratic ticket without resigning their respective nominations.

"I believe that the people of Georgia, whether democrats, hybrid-republicans, or full republicans, will resent the effort to deceive them by false political labels on their ballot."

HENRY FORD MAY RIDE IN GERMAN ZEPPELIN

Erected Mooring Mast at Detroit That Cost Him $500,000.

Detroit, October 12.—(AP)—The trip to the United States of the Graf Zeppelin now on its way to this country from Friedrichshafen, Germany, may mean that Henry Ford will take his first ride in a lighter than air craft.

It was recalled today that four years ago this month, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf-Zeppelin, having then delivered the dirigible ZR-3, now the Los Angeles, to the United States government, stood at the Ford airport and discussed with Mr. Fort the stamina of lighter than air ships.

"The next time you come to Detroit, you should bring your airship with you," said Mr. Ford. "I might be impressed into taking a ride with you."

"Well," Dr. Eckener replied, "I would do that but you have here no mooring mast."

"That's easy," said Ford. "I'll build one."

The following spring Mr. Ford built a $500,000 mooring mast at the airport.

Detroit is on the itinerary of the Graf Zeppelin on its projected tour after reaching the United States and thus it is that Mr. Ford may take the ride he spoke of in 1924.

LUTHER BURBANK'S OWN WORK SHOP FOR FORD'S MUSEUM

Consul Honored At Columbus Day Dance and Dinner

A picture of the future American as included all the bloods of Europe was drawn Friday night by Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university, in eulogizing the achievement of "Christofer Colombo, just one of millions of men, but one with an ideal," at the Columbus day banquet at the Ansley hotel.

The dinner-dance, given in honor of Cavalier Attilio Bollati, Royal Italian consul to America, was under the auspices of Il Circole Italiane d'Atlanta and the Atlanta Foreign Trade club. Representatives of several foreign governments were present as guests, including Cavalier Bollati, Sidney E. Kay, British consul; Dr. Rolf Jaeger, German consul, and Charles Loridans, French consul.

Great Nation In Making.

Pointing out that this is a young land which has the making of a great nation in it, Dr. Jacobs said that the future American "can only be guessed at by looking at this picture tonight." He referred to the fact that many nationalities were represented at the dinner, among them the Italian, English, German, French, etc.

The courage of Columbus in setting out with three small craft and a small crew in pursuit of a "crazy" theory that he could reach India, and of sailing on in the face of a mutinous crew, was praised by Dr. Jacobs.

"Today we are governed by Roman law in Atlanta, we believe in the religion preserved by Rome and spread over the country; our modern civilization was made possible through the indominitable spirit of the old Roman soldier and of Caesars; Italy has given us our art, law, music and many other things," Dr. Jacobs said. "And she has given America to America," he declared in stating that "today we live in Italy."

Bollati Welcomed.

Dr. Bollati was formally welcomed to Atlanta by Governor L. G. Hardman, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, Charles F. Hoke, president of the Foreign Trade club, and Guido Negri, president of Il Circolo Italiano. James A. Hollomon served as toastmaster. Among those introduced to the diners were B. S. Barker, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Barker; Harry O. Mitchell, branch manager of the department of commerce; Charles Loridans, French consul; Dr. Rolf Jaeger, German consul, and J. A. Rountree, of Birmingham.

Dr. Bollati, in his response to the welcome, declared that Italy is proud of the Italians who are true and loyal citizens of the United States, that these form a tie that binds the United States to their mother country and are the cause of an intimate and friendly relationship between the two countries.

The musical entertainment was directed by Signor Emilio Volpi, vice president of the Italian circle. Singers were S. R. Calloway, tenor; Mrs. Nora Allen Volpi, soprano, and Guido Negri, baritone. Dancing followed the dinner program.

The menu was composed of American dishes with Italian names.

PROSECUTOR PRESSES QUIZ IN PHILADELPHIA

District Attorney Prepares for More Police Indictments.

Philadelphia, October 12.—(AP)—With the adjournment until Monday of the grand jury investigating bootleggers and police corruption, District Attorney Monaghan and his staff today devoted their attention to gathering in the loose ends of the inquiry and the preparation of indictments against policemen and others under arrest.

True bills of indictment were returned by the October grand jury yesterday against Charles Cohen, suspended police captain, and two of his former subordinates, Albert Long, a district detective, and Frank De Rose, former chauffeur for Cohen. In five indictments containing 183 counts the trio were charged with accepting bribes from saloonkeepers. They will be arraigned before Judge James G. Gordon, Jr., on Monday to enter their pleas.

Twenty-one other policemen, ranging from sergeants to patrolmen, arrested on similar charges, are under bonds and the prosecutor said their cases would be submitted to the grand jury Monday. At the same time indictments against two alleged proprietors, the secretary, four employees and ten "members" of the Roman club, raided Wednesday night by federal and county officials, will be presented.

EPISCOPAL LEADERS FLAY RECTOR DRAFT

Bishop Matthews and Others Hit Theological School System.

Washington, October 12.—(AP)—Theological schools of the Episcopal church and the system of recruiting men for the ministry were criticised today at the general convention of the church by Bishop Paul Matthews, of New Jersey, and the Rev. Leslie Glenn, national secretary for college work, and other educationalists of the church.

The seminaries are "solely concerned with the intellectual progress of their man and neglect their moral and spiritual sides," Bishop Matthews told a conference of the commission on the ministry. Laying the blame for unsatisfactory ministers at the doors of the schools, he said the bishops were too anxious to get any type of candidate.

Charges Partiality.

Dr. Wallace E. Rollins, professor of church history at the Virginia seminary, said that on the other hand certain bishops had accepted men who had been discharged from seminaries on intellectual and moral grounds and actually ordained them in advance of their classmates.

Mr. Glenn said that "50 per cent of the ministers now at work are victims of mild melancholia," quoting in this connection Dr. William S. Keller, physician and prominent layman of the southern Ohio diocese. This, he said, is because the church has at times been forced to recruit its ranks from inferior material.

Called Best System.

"The Episcopal church has the best secondary school system in America," he said, adding, however, that misdirected and inadequate college work was responsible for conditions whereby only 6 per cent of men now in seminaries come from the secondary schools.

Another slant on the problem was furnished by the Rev. Perry Austin, worker among Pacific coast college students, who said that "secular concerns make regular and high-pressure pilgrimages to the campus in search of the best men and the church must be more regular and energetic if it expects to attract men of this type into the ministry."

The first joint session of the house of bishops and the house of deputies, the legislative bodies of the church, heard a report from Lewis B. Franklin, vice president and treasurer, that the deficit of $1,534,303 noted in the 1925 report had been wiped out.

To Raise $1,000,000.

A resolution to raise $1,000,000 of the $2,650,000 estimated necessary to rebuild and endow St. Luke's International hospital at Tokyo, Japan, was passed after the director, Dr. Rudolph Bolling Teusler, had declared that "if we do not Christianize Japan our Christian religion faces defeat in the east." The hospital was destroyed by the earthquake in 1923.

George Wharton Pepper, former senator from Pennsylvania, and lay deputy to the convention from that state, announced that Dr. Tuesler had given approximately $250,000 of his private earnings to the work of St. Luke's hospital during his 27 years as director.

LOS ANGELES SURGEON REMOVES HIS APPENDIX

Operation Is Successful and Patient Will Soon Be Well.

Los Angeles, October 12.—(AP)—Dr. Robert Meals, young Hollywood surgeon, who three days ago removed his own appendix, today said he felt well enough to get up and walk, and "I would do so now instead of waiting the necessary ten days if I thought it would be safe."

Neither economy, necessity, nor desire for publicity prompted his self-operation, the doctor said. Rather the operation was an experiment to verify his previous conclusion that the "shock" which most patients suffer from operations was due largely to anesthesia rather than the operation itself.

This theory, he said, had been corroborated.

Such an operation has been performed only two or three times before in surgical history, doctors said.

So reluctant were hospitals to be the scene of the experiment that Dr. Meals said he was refused permission to carry it out at two of the larger institutions here and consent to enter a third was given only after a promise that there would be no publicity given the hospital.

Dr. Meals was assisted by a friend, Dr. J. Norton Nichols, who helped locate the appendix, which was in an unusual position, and to loosen it from adhesions to the back of the abdominal wall.

Dr. Meals took his place on the operating table with only nurses, internes and Dr. Nichols present. His back and head were propped up and a surgeon's gown was slipped over his shoulders. He wore the usual rubber gloves and with his own hands proceeded as though he were operating on a patient under anaesthesia. Throughout the operation the surgeons carried on a conversation, Meals said.

A local anaesthetic was applied but the surgeon-patient was subjected to considerable pain due to inability to anaesthetize the inner organs.

LOCAL TELEPHONE SERVICE TO SPAIN BEGINS SATURDAY

Transatlantic telephone service between the United States and Spain will be inaugurated by President Calvin Coolidge and King Alfonso at ceremonies to be held in the building of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, it was announced here Friday. There will also be conversations between President Walter S. Gifford of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Marquis Deurguijo, president of the National Telephone company of Spain, and between Assistant Secretary of State William R. Castle and Ambassador Ogden H. Hammond.

The rate for Madrid will be $6 more for three minutes and $2 more for each succeeding minute than the rates from this country to London. Thus an Atlanta-Madrid call will cost $54 for the first three minutes and $18 for each minute thereafter.

With the addition of Madrid's 21,400 telephones a total of 5,787,000 telephones in Europe can now be reached from any American residence or office telephone. The total number of inter-connected telephones in Canada, Cuba, Mexico, the United States and Europe is 26,070,000.

BAINBRIDGE PREPARES FOR W. C. T. U. MEETING

State Convention To Be Held October 23-26, Inclusive.

Bainbridge, Ga., October 12.—Bainbridge, in its second role as host for a state convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, is making splendid plans for the entertainment of the notable women when they again assemble here October 23-26, inclusive, in annual state program of business and pleasure.

While the Callahan hotel will be the convention headquarters Mrs. Marq Harris Armor will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Evans of the hotel; Mr. and Mrs. Branson Harrison will have Mrs. A. B. Cungus, niece of Sam Jones, convention soloist, and Mrs. E. B. Cook, also of Cartersville, the convention pianist, as their guests.

Instead of the big reception that had been planned for the visitors for Thursday afternoon the photoplay, "Deliverance," will be shown at 3 o'clock at Brackin theater, the management has given the picture to the ladies at the cost of $10 only. But at noon on each day of the convention the visitors will be tendered luncheons in the beautiful dining room of First Baptist church, where the auditorium will be used for the meetings. City fathers are to give a public reception in the square in honor of the delegates on opening day afternoon, Tuesday.

Another interesting feature that is being seen to now are the tryouts for the various parts of the pageant—Uncle Sam, Liberty, Miss America, etc. The suits for the characters are to be rented and tryouts are necessary. Mrs. Gaston Slappey, leader of the Loyal Temperature legion, is getting her 78 little children ready for their pageant, and those in charge of the music on opening night, when the program will be entirely in charge of Bainbridge, state that that feature will be a brilliant one.

MRS. A. E. STETSON, NOTED RELIGIOUS LEADER, IS DEAD

Rochester, N. Y., October 12.—(AP) Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, at one time prominent in the Christian Science church, died here Friday at the age of 87. She had been ill for 10 weeks.

Mrs. Stetson had been staying with her nephew, Major Harold W. Stimpson, at the Hotel Sagamore here since her return from his cottage in Canada in August. Major Stimpson and his mother, Mrs. E. W. Stimpson, a sister of Mrs. Stetson, survive.

Reports several weeks ago that Mrs. Stetson was seriously ill at her hotel suite brought denials from her relatives. Private funeral services will be held here and in New York.

Mrs. Stetson was born at Waldboro, Maine, and was the daughter of Peabody and Salome Sprague Simmons.

Forensic Challenge.

Two challenges to debate have been received by the Oglethorpe university debate council, it is announced. North Georgia Agricultural college, Dahlonega, and the Howard Payne college, of Brownwood, Texas, have issued forensic defys.

Catarrh is Most Common Cause of Colds and Flu

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with chronic catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that catarrh interferes with natural breathing thus preventing proper oxygenation and purification of the blood by the lungs and also absolutely prevents restful, refreshing sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to all germ infections such as colds, flu, pneumonia, etc.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must fight it c istantly with a local remedy that reaches the spot. Of the many remedies that have been tested for the relief of catarrh, none has given such uniformly successful results to the physician or attained such popular favor as the prescription of Dr. Runion's, known to your druggist as Runion's White Wonder Salve. Applied in the nostrils, morning and night, "White Wonder" gives quick and most delightful relief. Clean, greaseless and absolutely stainless, White Wonder is a perfect example of the finest pharmaceutical art,—a joy and comfort to everyone who suffers with nasal catarrh.

RADIO-ING THE AIR WAVES

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

When Bulldog meets Bulldog in the Yale bowl this afternoon, the great football struggle between the sons of Eli and the University of Georgia will be brought to Atlanta gridiron followers by radio over WSB.

The broadcast is scheduled to open at 1:45 o'clock Atlanta time, with the NBC system bringing a play-by-play account of the game to this city.

Georgia is ready. With practically the same team and strength she displayed at Yale a year ago, when she lowered the Blue and White colors with a defeat that focused the eyes of the football world upon Georgia, and Yale this year not in the best of condition to meet a strong team, the Athens squad is out for another victory.

And another victory for Georgia would again place the team from below the Mason-Dixon line among the mythical contenders for the national title.

Governor Al Smith, of New York, following his address Friday night at Nashville, Tenn., again will be on the air over WSB tonight, this time delivering an address at Louisville, Ky.

The broadcast of the speech of the democratic nominee will open at 7 o'clock.

Another political broadcast will be: 8 o'clock, republican campaign speech. Thirteen prominent women will be the speakers.

• • • •

The second night of the Atwater-Kent auditions over WSB will be on the air at 10 o'clock tonight. The winners selected from those appearing Friday night and tonight will be in line for the national competition later in the season.

When the nation tunes in on the Lucky Strike coast-to-coast dance hour which will be broadcast over WSB and the National Broadcasting system at 9 o'clock tonight, it is estimated that more than 30,000,000 people will hear the hour's theme tune, "This Is My Lucky Day."

This program, consisting entirely of dance music, will be made up of the most popular rhythmic tunes that "made Broadway Broadway." The opening dance will be "The Best Things in Life Are Free," followed by "Half Way to Heaven" and the "Varsity Drag."

A feature of the broadcast will be a medley of George M. Cohan's popular hits of bygone days and a typical message from the noted composer-comedian will be read to the radio audience.

Following this will come a series of familiar favorites, including "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet," "Bo-Peep" and "Waitin' for the Robert E. Lee."

By special arrangement with Ned Wayburn, Florenz Ziegfeld, John Golden and other leading Broadway stage managers, Broadway's snappiest dancers set the tempo of the Lucky Strike dance orchestra.

A novel check on the orchestra's tempo is made. In the case of the average dance orchestra it was pointed out that the leader focuses his attention on one couple who dance exceptionally well and blends his playing with their movements.

Naturally this would not ordinarily be possible in a broadcast studio, but in the case of the Lucky Strike dance orchestra this precaution has not been overlooked. By special arrangement with the producers of current Broadway hits, dancers from various popular productions are loaned to the American Tobacco company every Saturday night. In this way a program full of life and lively rhythm is assured the Lucky Strike audience.

The complete program tonight follows:

This Is My Lucky Day.
The Best Things in Life Are Free.
Georgie Porgie.
Half Way to Heaven.
Varsity Drag.
When You Were Sweet Sixteen.
Talking to Myself.
Digga Digga Doo.
Anything You Say.
Last Night I Dreamed You Kissed Me.
Medley of George M. Cohan's Hits.
In the Shadows.
Bo-Peep.
Dream River.
Was It a Dream?
Look for the Silver Lining.
Yes, We Have No Bananas.
Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet.
Waitin' for the Robert E. Lee.
Down South.
This Is My Lucky Day.

Godfrey Ludlow, Australian violinist, will play "Ay, Ay, Ay," a South American folk tune, in his own arrangement, during a recital to be broadcast through KDKA and the NBC system at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Harty's "Irish Fantasie" will be heard as the opening number of the program, which also includes two numbers by Kreisler: his famous "Caprice Viennois" and the equally well known "Old Refrain." Vivaldi's "Andante," in an arrangement by Bach; and Ravel's "Piece" round out the program. Mr. Ludlow will be accompanied by Lolita Cabrera Gainsborg, pianist.

The complete program for this broadcast follows:

Irish Fantasie ..... Harty
Andante ..... Vivaldi-Bach
Caprice Viennois ..... Kreisler
Piece ..... Ravel
Indian Lament ..... Dvorak
Old Refrain ..... Kreisler
Ay, Ay, Ay
(South American folk tune)..Arr. Ludlow

UPSHAW OUT OF TOWN, JURY POSTPONES QUIZ

Due to absence of William D. Upshaw from the state, the DeKalb county grand jury reported Friday the impossibility of questioning him at this session as to certain statements charging use of "Tammany money" in the recent campaign of his successful opponent, Congressman Leslie J. Steele.

The grand juries of Fulton and DeKalb counties recently were asked by William Schley Howard, democratic chairman, to demand of Mr. Upshaw proof of the statements credited to him by the press.

It was recommended by the DeKalb group that Mr. Upshaw be required to appear before the next session of that body for investigation of the charges.

The recommendations of the grand jury, of which William Candler was foreman, also expressed the gratitude of the jury to Judge John B. Hutcheson for the able charge delivered to that body.

An excerpt from the grand jury recommendations follows:

"The grand jury wishes to acknowledge receipt through our solicitor general of a letter from Mr. William Schley Howard, requesting an investigation of certain statements credited to Mr. W. D. Upshaw. It is our information that Mr. Upshaw was out of the state, making it impossible to get him before the grand jury. It is recommended that an effort be made to have Mr. Upshaw appear before the grand jury at the next term of court so that his charges may be investigated.

"We wish to express in these presentments our gratitude to his honor, Judge John B. Hutcheson, for the very able charge delivered to our body and his earnest desire that all laws should be enforced, as well as his interest in the progress and development of our county.

"We also wish to thank our solicitor general, Hon. Claude C. Smith and his able assistant, Mr. John W. Jones, for the many courtesies extended to us during the session of our body.

"Respectfully submitted, this October 12, 1928.

"WM. CANDLER, Foreman.
"F. E. COOGLER, Clerk."

MILLICAN TO URGE COUNCIL TO NAME CITY PAYMASTER

Centralization of bookkeeping under the comptrollers department and creation of the office of city paymaster will be advocated in a paper to be introduced at Monday's meeting of city council by Alderman G. Everett Millican, chairman of a special committee, appointed by the mayor to study the city's disbursement system.

Copies of the paper are being mailed to members of city council so that they may familiarize themselves with the proposals.

Under the present system the various departments handle their own disbursements and payments are made in cash by special paymasters, who take receipts from employees. Under the proposed system all payments would be made by check by a single paymaster, or his assistants.

The system is designed, Alderman Millican explained, to simplify the present cumbersome methods and make for more efficient bookkeeping.

Atlanta Public School Pupils Will Hear Damrosch Concert

Pupils attending the Atlanta public schools will hear the first Walter Damrosch concert Thursday, October 26, beginning the series of 48 concerts to be put on the air. This celebrated musician is bending every effort to bring symphonic music to the school children of the United States. He has worked out the details of his plan, and the concerts will be broadcast in four series, graded according to the mental development of children and young people from the third grade through high school and college.

Works Out Plan.

It is Mr. Damrosch's plan to popularize the best in music, and the programs for these 48 concerts are made up entirely of the works of great masters.

First, the children will be introduced to the orchestra. They will learn to recognize the various instruments—to distinguish the sound of the piccolo from that of the flute, the trumpet from the horn, the viola from the violin—(there are lots of us grown children who have not yet learned to do this.) He will also explain what there is about the music of the oboe that makes a composer write sad passages for this instrument; why the music for the flute is usually light and gay; why the trombone is used for solemn effects and the trumpet for war and conflict.

In the first series, which has been planned for children of the third and fourth grades, one complete concert will be devoted to bringing out the quality of the percussion instruments, another demonstrates the flute and clarinet, and still another the English horn, bassoon and oboe. Additional programs have such headings as "Animals in Music," "Fairies in Music," "Nature in Music."

To the older boys and girls Mr. Damrosch will explain to a limited degree the forms which the great composers used, showing them the elements of the symphony, the symphonic poem, the rondo, but not in too technical a way.

Develop Appreciation.

The whole purpose of the series is to develop a real love and appreciation of music. Mr. Damrosch hopes to show his young listeners that music is a language of such emotions as they experience from day to day—joy, sorrow, laughter, singing, dancing—and once they discover this, music will no longer seem strange to them.

For 30 years Mr. Damrosch gave children's concerts at Carnegie Hall, and he says one of the greatest discoveries of his young audiences was that music can be humorous. They love the hee-hawing of the donkey in "Midsummer Night's Dream."

It is hoped that these radio concerts will encourage many children to take up a study of instrumental music. These young listeners will be the symphonic audiences of the future, and by learning to like good music when they are young, they will continue to do so when they are older and will seek to satisfy their love of fine music by going to the concerts of symphonic orchestras.

These radio concerts should be of interest and value to the grown-ups as well as to children, for in spite of our years many of us have not progressed in musical knowledge and appreciation far beyond the third or fourth grade child.

Prominent Floridians Arrive Here for Residence.

Mrs. A. Callan and Miss Gertrude Overstreet, prominent former citizens of Lakeland, Fla., have arrived in Atlanta to make this city their future home, and the Lakeland Sunday Ledger and Star-Telegram of October 7, in commenting upon their departure, said:

"In the removal of Mrs. A. Callan and Miss Gertrude Overstreet to Atlanta, Lakeland and Florida lose two fine women and two splendid citizens. There is a hope that is practically universal that they will be back in Lakeland. To have women like these go away is so great a loss that no good citizen views the move without realizing that it is an outstanding misfortune. In a particular way they will be missed at the First Methodist church, where Mrs. Callan was teacher of the Wesleyan class of women for a long time and Miss Overstreet had been a member for 18 years. Letters come back saying that they have rented an apartment in Atlanta and are being recognized as a part of the business life of that city."

PLAN NEW BUILDING

Riverside Military Academy To Erect Addition.

Gainesville, Ga., October 12.—Rounding out a program of progress for the last six years that has involved the expenditure of approximately $300,000, Colonel Sandy Beaver, president of Riverside Military academy, today announced plans for the erection of a new academic building, on which work will start immediately. The contract calls for the completion of the building by the first of February of next year.

The new structure, which is to cost approximately $50,000, will include an auditorium with a seating capacity of 600, 20 classrooms, laboratories and academic offices. Completion of the project will provide additional dormitory space for 50 cadets, Colonel Beaver said. The building will be located on the old tennis courts of the college campus. What is said to be the largest and most elaborately equipped school hospital in the south and a costly gymnasium and swimming pool were recent improvements. The north barracks also was enlarged, almost doubling its capacity, and a junior barracks was erected.

During the course of the improvements extensive work in enlarging the athletic field was carried on. The field now is said to provide room for five football elevens playing at one time, extra tennis courts and other recreational facilities. The campus, originally of 24 acres, now embraces 100 acres, which are situated on a commanding ridge, overlooking the Chattahoochee river.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE CARROT-PATCH PARTY BREAKS UP.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Be sure your debts to promptly pay;
'Twill greatly smooth your future way.
—Johnny Chuck.

It was a funny little procession moving down from Farmer Brown's carrot patch to the water on the overflowed green meadows. Ahead were Jerry Muskrat and Mrs. Muskrat. Right behind them were Johnny Chuck and Jimmy Skunk. A respectable distance on either side were Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy. Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat looked anxious. Johnny Chuck and Jimmy Skunk looked unconcerned. Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy looked disappointed and angry. And how Reddy and Mrs. Reddy did hate Jimmy Skunk! They were sure that if Jimmy hadn't meddled they would have had a Muskrat dinner.

It wasn't very far down to the water. When they reached it Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat waded right in. They didn't have to wade very far before it was deep enough for them to swim. Then they turned towards Jimmy Skunk and Johnny Chuck.

"Thank you, Jimmy. Thank you, Johnny," they said. "We'll never forget what you've done for us." Then Jerry looked over towards Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy. He slapped the water hard with his tail. Then he dived. Mrs. Muskrat did the same thing. When they came up again they were out where they had no cause to worry about Reddy Fox.

It was now Johnny Chuck's turn to be a little anxious. He wasn't afraid of Reddy Fox alone, or of Mrs. Reddy alone, but he was afraid of the two together. "Which way are you going, Jimmy?" said he to Jimmy Skunk.

"I don't know," replied Jimmy. "I haven't any place in particular in mind. Im just out for a little exercise."

"I saw some fat beetles up near my home early this morning," said Johnny Chuck artfully.

"Did you?" exclaimed Jimmy Skunk, brightening up. "I wonder if they are still there?"

"If you haven't anything better to do, let's go over there and find out," said Johnny Chuck.

"Suits me," said Jimmy, and together they started off. Now and then Jimmy started to catch a grasshopper or dig a white grub out of the grass roots. Now and then Johnny Chuck stopped for a bite of sweet clover. They didn't keep close together, but Johnny Chuck took pains to see that they were never far apart. Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy followed at a safe distance. They hoped Jimmy Skunk would take it into his little head to go off and leave Johnny Chuck alone.

"Suits me," said Jimmy, and together they started off.

But Jimmy did nothing of the kind. He hadn't forgotten those fat beetles. He has a liking for fat beetles. He didn't hurry, so, of course, Johnny Chuck didn't hurry, and, of course, Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy Fox didn't hurry. So at last they reached Johnny Chuck's house. By this time Reddy and Mrs. Reddy had given up. They saw they hadn't a chance in the world and went off to hunt for grasshoppers and Meadow Mice.

Johnny Chuck sat up on his doorstep and watched them and his face wore a satisfied grin.

"Where did you say those fat beetles were?" said a voice.

Johnny remembered what he had told Jimmy Skunk. "Do you see that old stump over there?" said he.

Jimmy nodded.

"Well, if you'll go and dig in that rotted wood I think you will find some fat beetles," said Johnny.

Jimmy ambled over to the remains of an old stump and began to dig around in the old wood. Johnny saw him suddenly pounce on something. "He's got one!" thought Johnny.

For a few minutes Jimmy Skunk was a very busy person. Then he returned licking his lips. "Thanks, Johnny," said he.

G. E. WINS SUCCESS DURING FIRST YEAR

The General Electric company's first year in the electric refrigerator business was an unusually successful one, a group of 150 General Electric refrigerator dealers were told Friday by W. E. Landmesser, of the General Electric company. The occasion was a regional sales conference held by the Alexander-Seewald company, distributor of General Electric in Georgia, at the Atlanta Athletic club. The conference was held to discuss sales opportunities and plans for 1929 and to give dealers an opportunity to exchange ideas.

"One of our big problems is locating the right type of man power," Mr. Landmesser said. "There are many fine openings for conscientious salesmen in our distributors' organizations. They are always on the lookout for high grade men who want to make good salaries. The refrigeration business is yet in its infancy. People are just beginning to realize the need for perfect food preservation and to recognize it as being essential to health and happiness. The next five or 10 years will show many new developments in refrigeration, not only from the standpoint of its place in the kitchen, but the many new uses to which it can be adapted.

"Many of the better theaters are employing artificial means of cooling during the hot months and I do not think it will be long before we see it put to the same use in the home. Electric refrigeration can be used in many industries. Atlantic coast fisheries are now experimenting with it so that frozen fillets may reach their inland destinations in a state of perfect preservation. Florists have found that it is ideal for keeping cut flowers fresh until sold. These are but a few of the industries that will be using electric refrigeration the next few years."

Mr. Landmesser's conclusion was greeted with a vote of thanks by those in attendance, who felt that the conference was extremely interesting and that it would be of great assistance to them in planning sales activities the coming year.

The General Electric company is holding regional conferences in all parts of the country. This method is deemed better than attempting to bring all distributors to the home office, as the group would be too large to handle and it would lack the personal touch that can be obtained by talking to these men in their own territories.

ELEVEN RESCUED FROM SHIP JUST BEFORE IT SINKS

Key West, Fla., October 12.—(AP) Eleven men on an alleged rum running schooner were rescued last night by the British steamer Antillian 15 miles south of American Shoal light a few minutes before the schooner sank.

The crew of the vessel said the boat had left Havana for Miami and was heavily loaded when it ran into rough seas. She was shipping water when sighted by the British ship. The men were placed ashore here.

DRIVER OF AUTO HELD FOR MURDER IN FATAL CRASH

Douglas, Ga., October 12.—(AP)—Earl Cromartie, driver of an automobile which crashed into another car here September 3, causing the deaths of two persons, was held for superior court action under $2,500 bond after a preliminary hearing yesterday.

Cromartie is a son of Representative-Elect J. A. Cromartie, of Hazelhurst. A warrant charging him with murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Emory Markett, who died some days ago of her injuries, was served on him after the preliminary hearing.

Previously a warrant charged Cromartie with murder in connection with the death of the infant son of Mrs. Ira Dent, also a passenger in the car with Mrs. Markett. This charge was reduced to involuntary manslaughter at the preliminary hearing.

HEAD ACHED, EYES BURNED, STOMACH OUT OF ORDER

MANUFACTURE of Thedford's Black-Draught began in 1840, and many people tell of having taken it all their lives when in need of a laxative or cathartic. The following statement by Mr. W. A. Bruce, of Seneca, S. C., is typical of the experiences described by thousands of Black-Draught users:

"I am forty-four years old, and I might say," relates Mr. Bruce, "that I have taken Black-Draught, at intervals, all my life.

"I remember that, when just a small child, my mother made tea from Black-Draught and gave it to me.

"As I grew up, when I needed a medicine for biliousness, or for constipation, I would take Black-Draught.

"A few years back, I noticed that if I took the least cold, and my stomach was out of order, I would have very severe headache. The cold seemed to settle there. My eyes would burn, and I would suffer a good bit of pain. I took Black-Draught for this, and I do not have that trouble now.

"I found, too, that there was no use suffering from constipation, as I once did. Black-Draught relieved me, and I am feeling fine, now. I have never found a better medicine of the kind than Black-Draught, and it is all I take now.

"I recommend Black-Draught to others, and have had them tell me how much good it did them."

Many men and women have written that they have found Black-Draught helpful when taken as a laxative in addition to quinine in cases of common colds.

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT for Constipation, Indigestion Biliousness

There's somebody like him in every office

LISTLESSLY he begins the day. But he has no grip on his job. His desk piles up with unfinished work. As people help and pity him, he realizes that he might as well face the truth. He is through. The pace is too much. Something has been stealing his energy—killing his ambition. He isn't sick—and yet somehow, these days, he never feels well.

Thousands of men are slipping and failing, falling behind the crowd, all because they fail to realize how deadly constipation is. Constipation can wreck the strongest body. Headaches, sleepless nights, listlessness, wan complexions are just a few of its early symptoms. In the end, it often leads to serious disease.

What a pity more people do not know there is such prompt relief from this terrible scourge! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation safely. More — to prevent it just as surely.

Only ALL-BRAN is 100% effective

It is bulk that relieves constipation. Because it is 100% bran, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies bulk in generous quantity. This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it through the intestines—gently distending them, sweeping, purifying, cleansing. In a part-bran product the amount of bulk is usually too small to be completely effective. That's why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran—100% effective.

ALL-BRAN

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is totally different from dangerous drugs and pills whose dose must be constantly increased to be effective. It works as nature works. The amount you need for healthful regularity need never vary.

A pleasant cereal. To eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Mix it with other cereals. Sprinkle it into soups. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily — chronic cases, with every meal. The health of the entire family can be maintained by serving ALL-BRAN in some form every day.

But get genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't run the risk of part-bran substitutes. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

THE NIGHTMARE

By GERALD MYGATT

SYNOPSIS.

Patricia Shane is being entertained in one of New York's night clubs by Fanning Eddgar. She is annoyed by the insulting stare of a hawk-nosed man on the opposite side of the room. At the table with the Hawk are a blonde, coarse looking woman and a slight young man who appears to be drunk. The head waiter calls young Eddgar away from his table on a pretext, and as soon as he is gone the Hawk approaches Patricia and tries to engage her in conversation. He is interrupted by a good looking young chap who orders him back to his place. The newcomer introduces himself as Jimmy Kirklin. Patricia tells Kirklin that she thinks the hawk-nosed person had asked the head waiter to get rid of her escort. A fight ensues and Fanning Eddgar walks in on it. He pays the head waiter to restore order and Patricia introduces Kirklin to him and then asks Fanning to take her home. A few minutes later, as Kirklin leaves the place with his companion, he is followed by a man on the street who appears to be drunk.

The hawk-nosed person, known as Bart Stoman, after taking the blonde woman home, makes for his secret hide-out and there goes over a number of old newspaper clippings dealing with the disappearance of the fourteen-year-old daughter of Col. La Verry, who offers a million dollars reward for the safe return of the girl. Stoman gloats over the fact that the pictures of Sylvia La Verry resemble the girl he saw in the cabaret with Fanning Eddgar, except for a red birthmark shown in the pictures.

The next day, which is Saturday, Patricia and Jimmy spend the afternoon together and then Patricia takes the evening train to her home in Far Harbor, Long Island, after Jimmie promises to come out to Far Harbor on Monday. Patricia goes to meet Jimmie at the end of the bus line on Monday, and is bitterly disappointed when he doesn't appear.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

Jimmy Makes a Decision.

Phrases continued to roll through Jimmy's mind. Bart never double crossed a pal. Bart, now, must be the big man with the hawk beak and the black eyebrows, the one he had pasted that night in the Gilded Lily. That must be Bart, right enough. Bart, they said, was coming out later. They were to wait for him.

Then next who was the Doc? Doc what? They had said his last name, said it two or three times, yet Jimmy, trying his best to concentrate, couldn't for the life of him recollect it. All he knew for certain was that a man and a woman were in the next room, the man called Joe and the woman called Queenie; that they were cold bloodedly planning some apparently atrocious crime in which mutilation and hypnotism were to be used and that they expected to profit by this crime in money. He knew further that a man named Doc something was in the scheme and a man named Bart; Bart being the man who had reserved this very room under the name of W. V. Stormm. The Doc was to work the hypnotism. The woman, it seemed, was to tattoo a birthmark.

He tried to carry his thoughts on with the same orderly clearness. Just how sure was he, for instance, that they were interested in Patricia? He pondered this for some minutes while the blood rushed hotly to his face, for an instinct beyond reason told him that Patricia and none other was the person they had in mind. Hadn't the hook-nosed man stared at her and tried to talk to her that night at the Gilded Lily? Hadn't the woman called Queenie stared, too? Hadn't the hook-nosed man even pulled a pistol when there was the least possible reason for doing such a thing? Hadn't the pallid little man, the one in the next room now who wore that giddily banded Panama hat—hadn't he tried to follow Jimmy away from the place that night, just probably because he had intervened in Patricia's behalf? Weren't these three even now congregating at Spearhead, which was the nearest town to Far Harbor, where Patricia lived? Hadn't the little man just said something about tattooing a pretty face?

Jimmy made a low ugly noise in his throat. His upper lip curled. He set his jaws together and clinched them. Well, there was still time. He would hustle over to Far Harbor as fast as he could, find Patricia's house, somehow get her away. If only he could get her away and keep her away till Saturday, for it seemed that these three must do this thing by Saturday, whatever the thing might be—if only he could keep her away till Saturday, then perhaps she might be safe.

In the balm of the afternoon sunlight Captain Ebenezer Squiggs ambled comfortably along the short stretch of white shell road—Water street its name was—that led from the corner by the Rosebud theater to the home of his friend and crony of many years, Tim Shane. A weazened little man with white chin whiskers, Captain Squiggs beamed amiably at the familiar landscape and at the dancing blue waters that rimmed it.

It was not in his mind that he would find Tim home. He knew Tim was out with a sailing party, for being town clerk Captain Squiggs knew everything. In his own words, for he prided himself upon his modernity, there wasn't much got past him. No, sirree! He was aware, accordingly, that Patricia herself was home, that she had met the three-twenty bus, that the boy she was expecting hadn't shown up and that Pat was pretty mad about it.

All this had come to his ears by 3:30 at the latest; for it was common knowledge in the village of Far Harbor that Cap'n Squiggs was not a giver but a trader of information. Tell Cap'n Ben a piece of news and he'd give you as good as he got. Thus, at all events, reasoned Adam Blake, the stage driver, whose ambitions were political and boundless. Besides it had annoyed Adam, as an old friend of Pat's, that any city yap should give her the gate. If Pat was sore, and any fool could see that much, it was only the decent thing to tell Cap'n Ben. Cap'n Ben, whom Pat called uncle, ought to know about it.

So it was that Ebenezer Squiggs made his way along the beach road, named Water street by the W. T. I. A.—and you came from the city if you didn't know that this meant Women's Town Improvement association. His mission, all in all, was not entirely one of solace. He liked Pat and he liked to chin with her; she sort of stirred him up somehow and reminded him of the days when he was younger. Besides this there was a mighty comfortable Gloucester hammock on the Shane veranda, and over and above this Tim, when he came home, might be persuaded or coaxed or wheedled to uncork a bottle of his elderberry wine. Tim was a good man to drink with—that is when you felt like drinkin' quietly—because Tim never took more'n one glass. That left the rest of the bottle for whoever was there.

There was the house in front of him, closer now than he wanted it. It would be better, he reflected, if it were two-three miles away. That would give him more chance to think. He thought best as he walked, as most men did; and the longer he walked the better he thought. Walking, mused Cap'n Ben, packed things down into a man's mind, just as walking packs sand down into your shoes. From long experience with sand Cap'n Ben knew that there never was any use shaking out your shoes till you had all the sand collected at the bottom, where you could feel it crunch under your socks. Shake 'em out before then and pretty soon they'd be scratching again. But walk the sand down, walk it down till it hurt—then one good whack on a fence post would spill the stuff clean.

"Hence," said Captain Ebenezer Squiggs aloud, gesturing toward the harbor, "hence the old Greek expression, 'Sand your tracks.'" This must have struck him as a witticism for he chuckled. Then: "Ain't I the darned old cut up?" he remarked, and grinned.

He found himself with some surprise at the foot of Timothy Shane's white clamshell walk. It was there, as he hesitated, that he received his inspiration.

From the kitchen came Patricia's voice. "Who—who's there?"

Captain Ben smiled and preserved silence. He enjoyed surprising people.

"Is—is that you, dad?" asked Patricia.

Silence. Then presently Patricia appeared, wiping her hands upon a blue gingham apron. Her face looked oddly set.

"You old fraud," she said. "Why, I knew you the minute you came in, Uncle Ben. Er—dad's out, sailing."

"I knew that," squeaked the old man. "I bet I fooled you though for a minute, Pat. I knew your dad was out. I just came in to pass the time o' day."

The girl's eyes darkened. Even Captain Ben Squiggs, as old as he might be, was at times acutely conscious of Patricia's eyes. They changed color, they did. They were gray usually, but when she got mad they turned black. Cap'n Ben always felt uneasy when they turned black.

"Uncle Ben," the girl flung at him stormily, "you've been drinking with a stranger. And you promised me—you know you did."

"Yes, ma'am," said Captain Squiggs. "Have I got to give up my job in New York and come back here just to keep an eye on you?" she flamed.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

New Haven, Conn., October 12.—The Georgia Bulldog arrived here today seeking its second victory over the Yale Bulldog. The southerners landed at New Haven following a night spent in the mad city Manhattan at the Vanderbilt hotel.

Coach Mehre and his squad left New York this morning around 10 o'clock and arrived in New Haven at 11:45 o'clock. Following lunch at the Hotel Taft the squad repaired to the famous Yale bowl and practiced for two hours, running signals, going down under punts, and indulging in the usual day-before-the-game practice. Everyone is in good shape. No one was cracked up in the Mercer game last Saturday. Frank Dudley's dad, Mayor Lon A. Dudley, of Athens, took care of his son and cured him of a slightly irritating cold, which means that this hard-charging, fast-running piece of humanity which furnishes such splendid interference—Frank Dudley—will be in shape for tomorrow's fray.

This correspondent has a slight suspicion that Georgia will win this most important intersectional game. Yale was made famous last year by losing to the Georgians. Last year Georgia had Tom Nash and Chick Shiver, "the two best ends ever to play in Yale bowl," so Coach Tad Jones characterized that famous pair of flankmen. This year Nash and Shiver are gone. Shiver now is end coach at Georgia. But he isn't at Yale this year for this game. He is out scouting this now fear-inspiring Tulane team. But Georgia, instead of having two outstanding ends, has four good ends—Smith, Palmer, Nixon and Maffett. Of this quartet, Smith and Nixon look the best. And upon the end play depends the outcome of this all-important game. End play last Saturday, against Mercer, was spotty. But Head Coach Mehre has endeavored toward improvement. We believe he has achieved it.

Ends Are Improved.

Two scrimmages have been held since Saturday. According to Mehre, the play at the flanks has improved. You could hardly ask for better work from the line. That gang, from tackle to tackle, is as capable as a year's experience could make it. The entire bunch has had experience. Every member faced Caldwell and company last year. So did that backfield—H. F. Johnson, Hooks, Dudley and McCrary. No cause for stage fright here. It's an experienced crew. We believe it will defeat Yale. "There's every reason to think Yale will win. The Eli squad last year tasted of defeat as doled out by the southern Bulldog.

Mal Stevens is making his debut as coach at Yale. He, naturally, is anxious for victory. Those men left from last year's squad—of which there are many—are anxious for victory. Yale, therefore, is laying for Georgia. There's no secret being made of the fact; the papers here in New York almost demand victory—they hopefully speak of a Yale win. But they have at the same time a wholesome respect for Georgia. Georgia has come to mean more than just another game for Yale. It's another step toward a victorious season. Yale realizes that Georgia is dangerous.

Yale realizes that, in order to have a successful season, Georgia must be beaten. And that's why Yale is out to defeat the crew from Georgia. That we can't help but believe that Yale has drawn a tough assignment.

These Georgia boys are the most confident young men we have ever seen. They are not over-confident. They're not cocky, they're just not afraid of that name Yale. Yale has, oftimes, been a name to strike fear to the heart of any team. But Georgia defeated Yale last year. There's no getting around that. That score of 14-10 is as immutable as the laws of time. The Bulldog of the north is not unbeatable. The Georgians realize that, and they're out to beat Yale again.

The coaches are seeking a victory. The game next week involves Furman. Billy Laval is coaching Furman this year. Furman, accordingly, won't be as dangerous as usual. Georgia, therefore, can afford to shoot the works against Yale. And Georgia will shoot the works against Yale.

Hoben Is Out.

Hoben, Yale's star quarterback, will be out of the game. He's the youngster who defeated Princeton last year by means of the forward pass. He is a valuable man to have. A youngster who's name is Elles will run the team. He hasn't had much experience. Georgia will present its full strength. Smith and Nixon at ends; Lutzenhiser and Frisbie at tackles; Jacobson—now recovered from a broken finger—and Haley at guards; Boland at center; Johnson, quarter; Hooks and Dudley, halves, and McCrary, fullback; that's Georgia's varsity.

In case anyone should ask you, it's a good varsity. It is one, we believe, that is capable of defeating Yale. And in the backfield there's Paris, Hill, Waugh and Rothstein to take the places of the above mentioned. The line has no reserve material to speak of. It will have to withstand the assaults and buffeting of the Yale squad. But the men in that line are strong and husky. We think they can stand the gaff. And we believe that Georgia will be returned a victor over Yale. Dope is against it, but we believe the south will achieve another victory.

Windhols, of Norfolk, and Miss Antoinette Darden, of Norfolk, are the finalists.

Miss Holzderber, medalist of the tournament, and who swept through in easy fashion all of her match play rounds, today qualified for the finals by defeating Mrs. George McAllister, of Hampton Country club, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Haynes qualified as Miss Holzderber's opponent in the finals by defeating Mrs. M. L. Bell, of Baltimore, 6 and 4. Mrs. Haynes' playing was brilliant the entire distance and her putting deadly.

BY FRED M'EACHIN.

A team of football players who have fought, struggled and won together for a period of four years has come to town.

They are none other than the famous gridiron eleven representing Loyola university, of New Orleans, which has journeyed to Atlanta to meet the snappy Oglethorpe football machine at Spiller's field this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Loyola's varsity eleven has played together since the players were freshmen in 1925, at which time they copped the Louisiana state title. They were mighty good then and they are mighty good after three years of companionship. Every member on the Wolf team is a veteran of undisputed ability.

Stars Are Plentiful.

It is a difficult matter to select the outstanding star or stars in Coach Clark D. Shaughnessy's mighty gridiron assemblage, but after a lengthy consultation with the visiting coaches at the Georgian Terrace a few interesting facts were learned. As an eye-opener the public is informed that the invading Wolverines have a mighty heavy team. The line weighs 185 pounds and the four backfield aces average 170 units of avoirdupois. A Dixie Flyer—not a train—will be seen taking his daily workouts in the contest this afternoon. This human flash is quite well known by the name of "Bucky" Moore. The flashy Mr. Moore is the gentleman who outdistanced the quite famous Red Grange in yards gained from scrimmage during the season of 1926. This invading pestilence is a versatile gridiron exponent; he runs, he passes and he kicks; in other words, he is a triple-threat man in the intrinsic sense of the word.

Bucky's Last Year.

This is Bucky's last year with the Wolverines and quite naturally this will be his final appearance on a local gridiron. It is a known fact that the Loyola crew has within its ranks two of the best ends in the south, Captain Miller and Allen. Both of these wingmen distinguished themselves in the recent tilt with the Irish of Notre Dame. Galle, although a substitute tackle, probably did more damage to the Rocknemen than any of his teammates. He will see plenty of service in today's encounter. Every football team has its giant and Loyola is no exception to this rule. Tiny Drouilhet has a very deceiving name. He weighs 210 pounds and towers six feet two inches skyward. He plays right tackle and will be pitted against Oglethorpe's star lineman, Jimmie Sims.

Budge Is Smallest.

Aubrey Budge is the smallest man on the squad, but this fact does not detract from his abilities in the least. He will be playing left halfback, weighs only 148, is only five feet four but the Orleans supporters say, "Watch his smoke."

Coach Shaughnessy escorted his charges over to Grant field Friday afternoon and sent them through a light workout consisting of passing, punting and signal drill. He stated all of the boys were in fine shape for the mix-up with the Petrels but would not predict an easy victory. He does not believe in over-optimism and neither do his understudies. They are expecting a tough scrap with the new Petrel machine which Coach Harry Robertson has groomed into shape.

The above information does not seem the least bit consoling to Oglethorpe alumni, students and boosters. But it is not to be forgotten that Loyola has the best eleven in the history of the institution. They are all veterans of the game and are in tip-top shape for a gruelling contest.

Loyola's Record.

Believe it or not but the Loyola Wolves have not won a road game since 1922. They have won only one road game since football was inaugurated at Loyola. This was a 7-0 defeat handed L. S. U. in Baton Rouge during the early part of the campaign of '22. Since that time they have been thwarted in their efforts to invade foreign territory. Another bit of news. They have never won a football game from Oglethorpe. In 1924 the two outfits ended a stiff game with a 13-13 deadlock staring them in the face. The following season, however, during the regime of the famous Adrian Maurer, the Petrels triumphed over the Wolves by the count of 13-0.

As everyone knows, Cy Bell is back with the Petrels and has been showing up splendidly in the early games. Lyman Fox has developed into a powerful ball carrier. In fact, the entire Oglethorpe crew is in the best of condition for this afternoon's tilt. Of course the presence of Captain Joe Hutson at center will be sorely missed. But Jake Malsby should turn in a creditable performance at the pivot post. Amos Martin has been suffering from an attack of flu and is not expected to participate in the melee.

Considering the strength of the two teams and considering the uncertainty of a football game, it would be a rather uncertain prediction to pick a winner. In the estimation of this correspondent, the team which gets the breaks will win the game. At any rate it will be a close, stubbornly fought battle, well worth witnessing.

HURRICANE TO GO AGAINST HORNET TODAY

Morehouse Player Fatally Hurt

Sam Grice, fullback at Morehouse negro college, of Atlanta, died Saturdy afternoon at a local hospital from internal injuries received in football practice Wednesday. Grice, who was a senior, was rushed to the hospital following the scrimmage accident and little hope was held for his recovery from the first.

A long signal drill ended the hard week of preparation by the Crimson Hurricane of Atlanta university for its opening game of the season here with the Alabama State Normal "Hornets" today at 2:30 p. m. on the A. U. athletic field.

The meeting of these two elevens will have a great bearing on the conference championship.

Atlanta university will have a slight advantage over the Hornets in the line, "The backfields of both teams are about the same with three triple-threat men on each squad.

The Alabama aggregation, with its throng of followers, invaded Atlanta late Friday afternoon, headed by Coach B. C. Jacobs and a squad of 26 men, fresh from victory over the Florida A. and M. college in Tallahassee, whom they defeated last week, 7 to 0.

Both coaches were pessimistic about the outcome of today's fracas. Each declined to announce his lineup for today's battle.

KNOXVILLE WINS FROM MORRIS BROWN.

Knoxville college defeated the Morris Brown Wolverines with a baffling aerial attack by the score of 19-13.

The local aggregation came from behind to tie the count in the third quarter by scoring two touchdowns. Tyler, playing his second year with the Morris Brown team, ran 45 yards for a touchdown. He also carried the second touchdown over by starting a march in midfield using a delayed buck and drove the ball to Knoxville's 4-yard line, where he sneaked through for the second touchdown.

Score by periods:

Morris Brown	0	0	13	0	—13

Officials: Long (Tennessee State), referee; Jacobs (Alabama State), umpire; Gentry (Morehouse), head linesman.

Georgia's Frosh Beat Mercer Rats

Louisville, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Georgia freshmen defeated Mercer freshmen, 27 to 7, on the Louisville academy field here today. Georgia scored early in first quarter. Mercer scored her touchdown in the second quarter when Lamon at center grabbed a fumble and ran 50 yards for a touchdown. No Georgia player ever touched him. Georgia made a touchdown in each quarter by off tackle plays chiefly. Patterson, of Georgia, made two touchdowns and Perfumo and Downes one each.

125,000 To See Irish-Navy Tangle

Chicago, October 12.—(AP)—With a record-smashing crowd of 120,000 to 125,000 viewing the spectacle, the Navy and Notre Dame will battle on Soldier field tomorrow in one of the outstanding gridiron struggles of the year.

No matter if Notre Dame wallops the Middies, or the Middies take a fall out of Knute Rockne's warriors, the combat will attract the greatest throng that ever witnessed a football game in America.

'Big Train' Is Released To Manage Senators

Griffith Admits Post Will Be Offered Walter Johnson for Coming Year.

Washington, October 12.—(AP)—Walter Johnson, for many years the idol of Washington baseball fans, is expected to return to manage the American league team for which he pitched for 21 seasons.

While negotiations were not complete, Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, said that he and Johnson had talked over the matter, and that if the Newark club of the International league, which Johnson managed last year, would release him he would sign him.

At the same time Paul Block, owner of the Newark club, said he would not stand in the way of Johnson coming to Washington.

If Johnson is taken on to pilot the Senators he will succeed Stanley Harris, who in the past five years led the Washington team to one world series victory and two American league pennants. Harris was relieved as manager by Griffith two years ago when a three-year contract expired.

The famous "Big Train," as Johnson was affectionately known, went to manage the Newark club last year, but on account of a serious illness at the beginning of the season was unable to produce a winning combination for the Jersey metropolis. He is under contract with Block to manage the team again this year.

Johnson in his 21 years with the Washington club established himself as one of the greatest pitchers, if not the greatest, of all time. His fast ball was famous wherever baseball was talked, and his strikeout record probably will be the goal of major league pitchers for years to come.

Do Not Telephone For Scores

Please do not ask The Constitution by telephone today for football scores.

Due to the enormous number of calls each Saturday, the sports department finds it impossible to accommodate all requests and still make its editions.

For that reason readers are requested to wait for the first edition which will contain all possible scores. On other days the Constitution is anxious to give any desired information.

14 Sandlot Grid Teams Formed

Fourteen sandlot football teams have been organized as the result of a meeting in the offices of Sam Salzman.

Several practice games will be played between the various teams Saturday and by next week playing schedules will be completed and the league under full swing.

Among the teams entering play this year are the Rinky Dinks, Grant Park and North Side Terrors.

Superintendent of Parks Wallace was present and assured the sandlot organization of good accommodations and playing fields. Regular playing fields will be marked off at Piedmont park, Mosley and other playgrounds, and the fields allotted on regular schedules.

As a compliment to Sam Salzman, who started the sandlot league in Atlanta five years ago and has fathered the organization throughout its existence, it was decided to name the organization the Salzman Sandlot league.

Teams wishing to play in the league are requested to register at 121 1-2 Marietta street.

Gainesville Defeats Hartwell High, 31-0

Gainesville, Ga., October 12.—Gainesville High defeated Hartwell High here Friday, 31 to 0. The game was fiercely fought all through the first half. At the end of the half, Gainesville was leading, 7 to 0, but had shown superior line play that accounts for the score being so one-sided in the second half. The Gainesville team outcharged and outplayed the visitors in every phase of the game.

San Franciso Takes Lead for Coast Flag

Sacramento, Calif., October 12.—(AP)—San Francisco over-balanced the Pacific Coast league play-off series count two games to one in its favor by defeating Sacramento, 7 to 4, this afternoon. The best four out of seven victories wins the series.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
San Francisco	7	11	2
Sacramento	4	8	0

CLAY'S RATS CLASH TODAY WITH AGGIES

BY HERBERT CLARK.

The Yellow Jackets left for Tulane Friday afternoon. And as soon as they got out of sight, Coach Clay and his freshman squad sneaked down to the varsity lot and went through their own little session in preparation for Monroe A. & M., which will appear at the Flats this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the debut of the Junior Jackets.

The freshmen took a light but long workout Friday. Punting, passing, and a period of signal drill were in the dose prescribed by the master minds of the yearling team. In no department did the youngsters look any too good. The Rats have a wealth of material, on paper, but none of it has developed as it should.

The chances for a Tech victory were struck a hard blow when "Pat" Barron, the third of the line of backs to come up from the Aggie camp, strolled out on the field with his right hand done up in tape as a result of a wrench suffered in Thursday's scrimmage.

Kid will probably start a lineup of Sid Williams and Goldsmith, at the wings; Ezell and McKinney, at tackles; Wetherford and Greer, at guards with Farmer tossing the ball back to Lanier at quarterback and his backfield of Graydon and either Barron or Hunsinger at the halves and McKee at fullback.

Barron is bringing a real team up from Monroe, if the reports seeping out from their camp may be believed, and the test for the Rats will be a stiff one.

Fulton Loses To Boys' High By 6-61 Score

Purple Hurricane Tramps Down Field To Roll Up Heavy Goal Margin.

Displaying a dazzling offensive attack the Purple Hurricane of Boys' High blew with cyclonic velocity at Spiller's field Friday afternoon and defeated Fulton by the overwhelming score of 61-6.

Led by the brilliant playing of Wink Davis, the Purple took an early lead over its opponent which was never relinquished. Davis started the scoring early in the first quarter when he bucked over left tackle for four yards and a touchdown. He added two more touchdowns before the final whistle had blown, one of which was a beautiful 50-yard run and the other a sweeping dash around right end for 15 yards.

The Purple consistently gained through Fulton's forward wall, annexing a total of 14 first downs. Fulton could gain but little ground through the strong Boys' High line, and was able to make only three first downs, one of which was the result of a 15-yard pass.

The Purple went on a rampage in the third quarter and scored five touchdowns. Bluestein's 55-yarder, Elliott's 43-yard interception, Davis' 50-yard sprint, Howard's 30-yarder, and Davis' second score for 15 yards were the results of the Purple backs' extensive cavorting.

Vandy Arrives For Texas Game

Dallas, Texas, October 12—(AP)—Two football armies of the old south were camped on Texas soil tonight, awaiting tomorrow's skirmish with two leading representatives of the southwest conference.

The Vanderbilt Commodores, led by the brilliant Jimmy Armistead, reached Dallas late today, fit and confident on the eve of their annual set-to with the Texas university Longhorns. A 13-to-6 licking plastered against them by a Longhorn eleven last year was uppermost in their minds.

At College station, the Centenary college gentlemen, who flashed meteor-like across southwestern football fields last season, were camped within the picket lines of the Texas Aggies, last year's conference champions. Their tussle is expected to be one of the classics of the season. Last year the gentlemen were undefeated, listing among their victims two members of the southwest conference.

35 Jackets Off To Face Strong Green Wave This Afternoon

Boston Repels 'Blue Devils' Of Duke, 19-0

Visitors Threaten Early in Game But Easterners Hold Near Goal.

Boston, October 12.—(AP)—Little "Paddy" Creedon scampered and squirmed on the gridiron at Fenway park today and, with his backfield mates, Smith and Weston, gave Boston college a 19-to-0 victory over the "Blue Devils" of Duke university. A holiday crowd of 20,000 gathered to watch the conquerors of the Navy combat the much-heralded forward passing attack of the boys from North Carolina.

The Boston team, coached by "Joe" McKenney, the youngest college coach in the country, showed power on the offense and defense. The Dukelets passed often and well, but to little ultimate advantage. They made 15 first downs but could not cross the goal line.

Duke threatened soon after the opening of the game when a fumble enabled them to get the ball to Boston's 10-yard line. But the attack was smothered and Dixon, the left-footed punter, kicked Boston out of danger. The Boston backfield got going in real style in the second period and Creedon made 41 yards in four dashes off tackle before he finally dashed ten yards for the first score.

The teams battled evenly until the last period when Weston heaved to Creedon on the 28-yard line and the latter ran unhampered to the goal. Kilroy failed to kick the goals after each of the touchdowns.

Duke made frantic efforts to score in the last period by the air route and with double and triple delayed passes preceding the forward passes. They showed excellent results of drilling in the passing game. The plan proved a boomerang when Smith intercepted a pass on his 40-yard line and ran the remaining 60 yards for the final B. C. score. Kilroy kicked the goal.

Duie, Jankoski and Hollingsworth led the Duke attack. Hollingsworth was put in the game in the third period and he immediately made several gains. The Duke forwards were completed often but the receivers were stopped almost as soon as they caught the ball.

Score by periods:

Boston College	0	6	0	13	—19
Duke University	0	0	0	0	— 0

Decatur Defeats Griffin by 13 to 0

Decatur and Griffin High clashed on the Decatur field Friday, Decatur coming out on the big end of a 13-0 score.

Decatur outplayed the visitors in the first half of the game, allowing them but a couple of first downs while they were gathering in eight with two touchdowns.

Playing of Bothwell, Cavan and McGee in the backfield, and Flint and Ansley on the line proved the downfall of the Griffin club. McGee scoring both the counters and adding one extra point with a pass to Cavan.

Both the scores came in the first half, neither team being able to score in the latter half.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS

Birds and Wolves.

THE WOLVES AND THE BIRDS. It doesn't take a particularly visionary soul to call up a picture of action when these two teams meet at Spiller park this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

To begin with, two of the finest coaches in the south today are directing the work of these two teams, and whenever their teams take the field there is always action. Harry Robertson, of Oglethorpe, has brought the Petrel gridiron hopes from obscurity to a place at the very top of S. I. A. A. ranks and every year his team is a contender for the title of that group. He is a thorough coach. Always his teams are schooled in the fundamentals of football. Seldom does a Petrel fail to know how to block, tackle and run with the ball. These three fundamentals are drilled into the Robertson teams from the first of the season to the last.

As a morale coach Harry Robertson has very few peers. His teams do his bidding because they want to, not because they have to. He is not a soft man nor a soft coach, but his men respect him, and when he cracks his whip they hit that line. "Nutty" Campbell, the little bit who won all-S. I. A. A. honors many times, is helping Coach Robertson, and he is rapidly becoming a great coach under the tutelage of his big boss. If the Petrel backfield manages to run around and over the Wolves today the handiwork of Nutty Campbell will be evident.

Clark Shaughnessy, of Loyola, is an old familiar figure in southern football circles and he has developed a great team this year at the New Orleans Catholic college. Their great stand against the Irish of Notre Dame in the first game of the season will never be forgotten, and they bring to Atlanta a team rested for two weeks and ready to go.

This "Bucky" Moore, who calls signals for the Catholics, is known as the "Dixie Flier," and from all reports his name is well deserved. The Petrels, however, have their great names, too. Cy Bell, who might be called the "Bell of doom" by opposing teams, is back at Oglethorpe after an absence of a year and he is going "great bells" against all opposition. "The Furious Fox" is his running mate, and there is little to choose between the two.

In the backfield there seems to be little to choose between the two teams, but in the line there is a question. The performance of the Loyola line against the best Notre Dame could offer would indicate that the Catholics and New Orleans have an exceptionally strong forward wall. The strength of the Petrel breastworks has not yet been tested against formidable opposition, but it is certain that the loss of Joe Hutson will not help their performance.

Be that as it may, the game should be one of packed action. Loyola followers are giving points to Oglethorpe, but they may be allowing their memory of the Notre Dame game to blur their perspective. Without further ado we select the Petrels to win by a nose. To engage in unforgivable punning, we might say the "Bell will save them."

The SPORTLIGHT

Grantland Rice

Yale—Georgia—New Haven

Georgia was the team that left a large kink in a perfect season for Yale last fall when both teams looked stronger than they look today. For since that contest Yale has lost Caldwell, Scott, Fishwick, Hammersley and Webster among others; Georgia has lost at least four good men. As this will be the first real 1928 test for both teams there is little basis for any forecast, although the invading team is nearly always at a disadvantage where the material is fairly even. Georgia will be good again, so Mal Stevens will have his first opportunity to show what he has underway.

Notre Dame—Navy—Chicago.

Here are two teams that have dropped a number of notches in the last year. The Navy has been beaten by Davis-Elkins and Boston college, while Notre Dame has fallen to Wisconsin. Wisconsin has a team capable of beating any one, however. Both the Navy and Notre Dame, with a large number of gaps to fill, will be better later on when the new machinery starts to working. As things stand today Notre Dame looks to be a trifle better, but the battle should be close. In spite of the fact that both have fallen early in the season's run, this contest has a chance to break all football attendance records, somewhere up above the 100,000 mark.

Ohio State—Northwestern.

One of the best battles in the western conference, where the scramble this season will be something to watch. Ohio State has promise of a fine year, one of her best in many seasons, and looks to be strong enough to break through the Northwestern defense. Ohio State has several stars in Raskowski, Eby, etc., a lot of good backfield material, and if Dr. Wilce has been able to bolster up his line he will make any opponent step to win—and keep stepping all afternoon.

Purdue—Minnesota—at Minneapolis.

Another big card. Both are strong and both are contenders for the conference championship, where Illinois still looks to be a stride in front. Purdue will carry Welch and a good all-around team against Dr. Spears' aggregation, which many rank close to Illinois. Minnesota, with a world of power, is favored slightly, but the gap won't be large. Bronko Nagurski will be worth watching in this game, the same as Pest Welch.

Harvard—Princeton—Dartmouth.

None from this trio face any particular test. All three are still warming up for bigger days on ahead, where the schedule soon leads from the skirmishing into real war. Harvard, Princeton and Dartmouth should all win by decisive margins, with as much to spare as they care to pile up.

Vanderbilt—Texas—Dallas.

Always one of the big games of the south and one of the hardest. Vanderbilt won from the strong Colgate team a week ago and is now rated among the three best in southern territory. But a strong Vanderbilt team fell before Texas last October, and the long trip into the southwest is no great help. Vanderbilt has a star back in Armistead, who should be among the best of the year.

Michigan—Indiana—at Ann Arbor.

Michigan doesn't seem to be far away from another trimming. The Wolverine machine has been skidding the last two years and when Oosterben and Gilbert were through last fall Yost and Wieman had little but raw material left. Indiana is good, better than usual, and looks good enough to win with.

Centenary—Texas Aggies—College Station.

Texas Aggies crushed Sewanee last week by more than sixty points. Had one of the best teams of the year last fall. Centenary was just as good. The latter has a brilliant back in Jake Hanna and at least two other stars.

Some Others.

Pennsylvania will continue her winning stride against Swarthmore and Syracuse is too strong for Johns Hopkins. Columbia should beat Wesleyan. Iowa, with big McLean at full, should win from an improving Chicago team. Illinois has much too much for Coe. Nebraska and Missouri look safe against Montana and Center. Stanford should win easily and California should beat Washington State. Florida, heading the forecast south again, should win from Auburn, and Georgia Tech is too good for Tulane.

New Orleans Will Be Scene Of Big Battle

Tornado in Fine Shape for First Real Test; Boys Confident as Game Nears.

BY DICK HAWKINS,
Constitution Sports Editor.

Aboard the Piedmont Limited Bound for Tulane, October 12.—The Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech is bound for its doom. Leastwise, that's what the Tulane supporters declare in no uncertain terms.

Strangely enough, there are thirty-five gentlemen aboard this roading train who approach their doom with extreme fortitude. In fact, these gentlemen about to die are laughing and talking in most natural tones while they pass the long hours before football curfew sends them to bed early.

Such a strange state of affairs leads one to question the actual frame of mind of these men. A question brings the astounding fact that these laughing, card-playing gentlemen from Georgia Tech don't think they are going to their doom. Strange, isn't it, that football players can't be made to believe all they read in the papers?

Oh, well, here's the train and there's the game tomorrow afternoon. Until that time the man who talks the loudest wins the contest. When these 35 young men from Georgia Tech meet a like number of Greenies tomorrow afternoon there will be little talking and much more thanking and fighting.

All Are Happy.

The boys are laughing and talking. They are playing cards and amusing themselves according to their own dictates tonight. From all appearances they haven't a care in the world. But now and then you can catch a far-away expression on the face of one of these huskies. He is thinking of tomorrow. He is running that play over in his head. Underneath all the laughter and talk these lads are all thinking of tomorrow. And well they may. Tomorrow brings a test of Tech's 1928 Tornado that will indicate something of its real strength against a good opponent. That battle will bring out more than the V. M. I. engagement of last week. Either it will do that or Tech will lose a game of football. That can't happen to these fellows who talk and laugh—and think.

Back in a stateroom the coaches sit in idle conversation. The game is not mentioned. Coach Alex is questioned by a reporter, "Have you any idea whom you will start tomorrow, coach?" The answer comes along with that peculiar Alexander smile, "Yes, I've got an idea."

At the time Coach Alexander refused to say more. Later in the day, however, he gave out the following official lineup to Atlanta sports writers with the understanding that it would not be sent to New Orleans:

Unless one of these games of bridge results in a severe casualty the entire Jacket squad is ready for action tomorrow if called upon. Maree, the giant tackle from Savannah, still has his leg in a bandage but can play if called upon. Keener, who was hurt last Sunday when he bumped skulls with Frink, has nothing worse than a slightly cut scalp to worry about.

Wait Till Tomorrow.

Just finished a poll of the players. The question was, "What will the score be tomorrow?" The answers were—unanimous. "Wait till tomorrow night and we'll talk about that. Just one thing we know—the Tech end will be bigger than that of Tulane." There you have it first hand, so to speak. These players are confident but each is serious. They know that they are not facing a "practice game."

Florida-Auburn Practice Halted

Gainesville, Fla., October 12.—(AP) A steady rain here tonight with a drop in temperature is expected to give way tomorrow to ideal football weather as Florida and Auburn clash in the first conference game of the year for the 1928 "fighting 'Gators."

George Bohler, and 26 Auburn Tigers arrived shortly after noon today and worked out here. Charlie Bachman's 'Gators were caught by the rain and after a few minutes out of doors, finished up the light drill with running signals in the gymnasium.

Bachman will start his second team tomorrow as he did last week against Southern. Except for Bowyer, Owens and Green, the team is inexperienced in varsity ball.

The Auburn squad is filled with determination to shake off the losing jinx that has followed them through 14 successive battles. To strengthen his offense, Bohler has delegated Tuxworth as quarterback tomorrow, and Sellers, a hard plunging fullback, will relieve Granger, who is out with a knee injury.

Florida is established as favorite, but fans expect a rugged battle from the Tigers.

Grid Selections

BY BOB ZUPPKE
Football Coach University of Illinois.

Minnesota-Purdue—If there is any edge, Minnesota has it.

Notre Dame-Navy—I'll string along with the Irish.

Chicago-Iowa—Let the experts guess this one. The conventional guess is Iowa, but the Maroon backs are better than thought. Don't underestimate Chicago.

Northwestern-Ohio State—A bobble and a bounce there will decide it. It is anybody's game.

Michigan-Indiana—On paper Indiana has a golden opportunity.

Wisconsin-North Dakota—Wisconsin handily.

Iowa State-Grinnell—Iowa State is favored.

Missouri-Centre—Should not be hard for Missouri.

Nebraska-Montana State—No threat to the Cornhuskers.

Kansas Aggies-Hays—The Aggies in a walk.

Marquette-Drake — Marquette has an edge with Gebert.

Detroit-Louisville — Detroit, probably.

BY BILL ROPER.
Princeton Football Coach.

Army-Providence: Army should have no difficulty.

Bates-Tufts: Tufts should win.

Bowdoin-Williams: Williams.

Carnegie-Thiel: Carnegie.

Catholic university-Villanova: Villanova.

Columbia-Wesleyan: Columbia.

Cornell-Hampden-Sidney: Cornell.

Dartmouth-Allegheny: Dartmouth.

Georgetown-Lebanon Valley: Georgetown.

Holy Cross-Rutgers: Close.

Lafayette-George Washington: Lafayette.

Lehigh-Gettysburg: Close.

Notre Dame-Navy: Anybody's game.

N. Y. U.-Fordham: Fordham can hardly expect to win.

Penn State-Bucknell: Penn State.

Temple-Western Maryland: Temple has hard opposition, but should win.

Yale-Georgia: I look for a close game, but favor Yale.

South.

Florida-Alabama Poly.: Florida.

Kentucky-W. and L.: Close, with W. and L. winning.

BY HOWARD JONES.
Football Coach, University of Southern California.

Washington-Montana: Washington should win handily.

Idaho-Whitman: Looks easy for Idaho.

Pomona-Arizona—Odds slightly favor Arizona.

G. M. C. Defeats Clarkesville, 31-0

Milledgeville, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—G. M. C. cadets led by Captain Arthur Smith snowed under the fast Clarkesville Aggies here this afternoon, 31 to 0. The scoring for G. M. C. was done by Canupp, Wynn and Gunnels. On the first play of the game, Canupp went through right tackle for 60 yards and a touchdown. Gunnels scored the second touchdown in the first quarter, after a pretty run of 35 yards, he took the ball over the goal line on his third attempt through the Aggies' line.

One of the prettiest plays of the game was made by Wynn for the Cadets when he intercepted a forward pass and outran the entire Clarkesville team for 40 yards and a touchdown.

G. M. C. scored two more touchdowns in the third quarter. The Aggies threatened the Cadet goal line only once following a fumble on the 30-yard line.

Captain Smith, who lays claim to being the biggest man in the world playing football, weighing 310 pounds stripped, played a good game at tackle. Prince, Beck and Higdon also put up good fights in the line for the Aggies.

Clemson Star Runs 34 Yards For 7-0 Victory

Justus Puts North Carolina State on 1928 List of Victims.

Florence, S. C., October 12.—(AP)—John Justus, flaxen haired youth of Pickens, who intercepted a pass to allow the Clemson Tigers to whip Auburn a week ago, won another game for his alma mater this afternoon, scoring the touchdown which enabled Clemson to defeat North Carolina State, 7 to 0, after a brilliant run of 34 yards in the last period of the game.

During the first half, with a torrid sun bearing down on the gridiron at the Peedee fair grounds here, the Wolfpack of Gus Tarbell kept the Tigers on the defensive and a couple of times made threats at the Palmetto goal.

Clemson Attacks.

In the third period both teams began to show some offense, neither having been able to do any consistent gaining in the first half but it was in the last period that Clemson started the fireworks with Justus the driving force and Pitts giving him able assistance.

The Clemson touchdown came after a "break," the only one of the game. The Wolfpack had the ball on Clemson's 38-yard line when a multiple pass play was called. Crum, stretching over eager fingers, hurriedly, for a not too good pass, fumbled the oval and Asbill, of Clemson, grabbed the pigskin. He fumbled after taking a couple of steps but Collins, a substitute, fell on the ball on North Carolina State's 44-yard marker.

Pitts smashed the center of the Wolfpack front wall for a yard and then Justus, on a pretty play over left tackle with a cutback behind the line, made eight yards. Pitts added one for a first down. Up to this time Clemson had only made two first downs, both earned.

Justus Crosses Goal.

With the ball on the 34-yard line Justus, using the left tackle, cut back, slipped through the Tech line, wriggled by the secondary defense and raced down the sideline for a touchdown. He barely stayed inside the field as he neared the goal but made it undowned. Asbill placekicked the point and the scoring was over.

Approximately 4,000 persons witnessed the game which as the score indicates, was bitterly contested every minute. The Tiger victory came as sweet revenge, the North Carolina technicians having won a year ago, 19 to 6.

Marist Defeated By Darlington

Rome, Ga., October 12.—(Special.) Darlington preps' powerful grid machine smothered the Blue and Gold crew of Marist college, Atlanta, here today under an avalanche of touchdowns, 41-0. Darlington ran through the Blue line almost at will and Coach Scott used every substitute on his squad. Marist suffered numerous injuries from its heavier opponents, Captain Holland and three of his mates being knocked out.

Hurst, Landers and Holt were the best bets for Marist. Their passing game was especially flashy. Last year they lost to the Purple and White boys, 20-0.

The Tigers are now looming big in the state title race, having already downed Oglethorpe frosh and Calhoun and have a season's score of 104 against their opponents' nothing in their first three starts. Last year they won every game played in Georgia.

Three Atlanta and Decatur boys were in the Tiger lineup today, Captain Marion Talley, Frank Etheridge and Jack Hunter.

Racer Is Killed In Track Crash

Salem, N. H., October 12.—(AP)—A carnival crowd of 25,000 persons gathered here for the 200-mile automobile sweepstakes on the Rockingham speedway today, saw tragedy stalk among the roaring motors, snuffing out the life of one racing driver and sending two others to a hospital with severe injuries.

Fred Comer, of Los Angeles, died before he reached a Lawrence hospital after the Boyle Valve Special he was driving hurtled into the air on a steep bank and plunged into the inner field. A few minutes later, four cars piled up directly in front of the grandstand and Jimmy Gleason, of Boston, was injured. A third accident occurring a few laps later sent Dave Evans, San Antonio, Texas, to the hospital.

Officials of the American Automobile association cancelled the race after the third crash "because of the accidents and the condition of the track." Only 50 of the required 160 laps had been covered.

Hagen Wins Match With Golfing Stars

Rye, N. Y., October 12.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, British open champion, shot a 71 to lead three other professional stars in an 18-hole medal play exhibition at the Westchester-Biltmore club here today.

The exhibition was for the benefit of the Catholic Writers' Guild of America.

The 71 total was three strokes better than the next best score, made by Johnny Farrell, American open titleholder. Billy Burke, north and south champion, was third with 75, and Leo Diegel trailed with a round of 77.

Commercial Wins From Douglasville

Commercial High defeated Douglasville in a hard-fought game Friday, 12-0. Commercial showed improvement over the showing made against Marist last Friday. The line played air-tight defense ball the entire game. Douglasville didn't get in scoring distance but once, while Commercial kept the ball well in the territory of Douglasville the entire game. The first touchdown came as the result of an end run by Carrington, Commercial half, while the second was put over by a pass to Arnold at end.

Score by quarters:

GIANNINI MERGER PLANS REVEALED IN INCORPORATION

San Francisco, October 12.—(AP)—The Chronicle says today that plans of A. P. Giannini to group the Giannini corporations into one vast enterprise have been disclosed in the filing of articles of incorporation in Delaware for the trans-America corporation.

The trans-America corporation is to have an authorized capital stock of 10,000,000 shares of $25 par value. Names of the incorporators were given as William T. Sweigert, S. J. Tosi and Eustace Cullinan, Jr., all of San Francisco.

The Chronicle said these were merely the legal incorporators and that the principals in the corporation were not named. Giannini was quoted as having admitted an interest in the new corporation but referred all other inquiries to Cullinan, who refused to divulge the details.

Total assets of the Giannini corporations are said to have assets in excess of $1,500,000,000 and undivided profits of $250,000,000. The four largest concerns are the Bank of Italy, Bancitaly corporation, Bank of America and Banca D'America E D'Italia.

100,000,000 BUSHELS APPLES READY AT CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago, October 12.—(AP)—An apple a day may keep the doctor away, but two apples per diem would suit the fruit growers, with 100,000,000 bushels ready to market, a great deal better.

The government bureau of agricultural economics today pointed out that bumper crops of fruit have resulted in a consequent price drop. In West Virginia, for example, the average price to farmers is 80 cents a bushel compared with $1.60 last year. Record-breaking crops of peaches, pears and grapes are given as the chief reason for apples being bargains this fall.

LIQUOR SQUAD NABS THIRTY VIOLATORS IN AUGUSTA RAIDS

Augusta, Ga., October 12.—(AP)—Thirty alleged prohibition law violators were taken into custody here today by federal prohibition agents who have been collecting evidence for two months.

The arrests and raids were continuing throughout the day by out-of-town agents cooperating with local, state and federal officials under the direction of R. A. Atkinson, deputy administrator of Savannah.

Smith Adherents Heckle Hooverites At Lyons Meeting

Lyons, Ga., October 12.—Hoover sympathizers held their first county wide rally here Wednesday night. Professor J. E. Eubanks, of Richmond academy, of Augusta, and Major E. R. Johnston, of Augusta, were the speakers of the evening.

While Professor Johnston was speaking a large Al Smith delegation all bearing Al Smith placards and banners, came in and heckled the meeting during most of the time. They also demanded one of their speakers be heard and called for Colonel E. J. Giles, whom Mr. Johnston accorded the same length of time as he himself took.

Giles paid great stress to the old southern traditions, to Hoover having been in the Harding cabinet and to his charge that Hoover had not had much government experience, to the charge that Al Smith's objection was not based on prohibition but on Catholicism.

COUZENS MUST REPLY TO SUIT, COURT RULES

Senator Loses Plea in Slander Action for $500,000 by Tax Expert.

Washington, October 12.—(AP)—The District of Columbia supreme court ruled today that Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, must answer a suit for $500,000 brought against him by Howe P. Cochran, a Washington tax expert, for alleged slander during a speech Couzens made on the floor of the senate last fall.

Senator Couzens was served with a summons June 4 at the union station after the adjournment of congress. He attacked the validity of the service, claiming that he was immune while attending the sessions of congress and until reaching his home.

Justice Wendell P. Stafford overruled the contention of counsel and held that the immunity mentioned in the constitution related only to an arrest in the sense of a physical detention and not to service of papers in a civil action. To the plea of the senator's that his remarks on the floor of the senate were privileged Justice Stafford ruled that such a plea could not be interposed in a motion to quash service, but should be pleaded in an answer and passed on by a jury.

GEORGIA APPLES WIN

Nine Premiums Awarded by Fair Officials.

Cornelia, Ga., October 12.—(Special.)—Georgia apples took the premiums at the recent Southeastern fair in Atlanta, according to official announcement made here today by the Consolidated Apple Growers' exchange, which handles the north Georgia apple crop.

The following statement was issued by the growers' exchange:

"The main apple exhibit in the agricultural building at the recent Southeastern fair in Atlanta was the best displayed of any similar exhibit in recent years. It was collected from apples grown in Habersham and Rabun counties, in the Blue Ridge section of north Georgia.

"This exhibit was collected by Troy G. Chastain, of Atlanta, who is interested in orchard properties at Clarkesville, Ga. It was arranged and well displayed by Charlie Chambers, of Cornelia.

"Four premiums were awarded for the best packed apple box exhibits, all United States standard pack, and were awarded to the Burns orchard, Clarkesville; Charlie Chambers, of Cornelia; Cleve Batson, of Demorest, and G. Hunnicutt, of Demorest.

"Five premiums were awarded for best plate exhibits of different varieties of apples. Of these four were awarded to the Piedmont Orchard company, of Clarkesville, and one to Charlie Chambers, of Cornelia.

"Governor L. G. Hardman and Dr. A. M. HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

The Story of Our War With Spain. Dewey Seeks the Spanish Fleet.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

IN THE LAST DAYS OF APRIL, 1898, WHILE DEWEY'S AMERICAN SQUADRON WAS SPEEDING TOWARD THE PHILIPPINES, THE SPANIARDS IN MANILA WERE BOASTING OF WHAT THEY WOULD DO TO THE AMERICANS, AND ISSUING BOMBASTIC PROCLAMATIONS DESIGNED TO INCITE THE FILIPINOS (WHO HAD LATELY REBELLED AGAINST THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT) AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

ADMIRAL MONTEJO, THE BRAVE BUT INCOMPETENT SPANISH NAVAL LEADER, NOT EXPECTING THE AMERICANS TO ATTACK SO PROMPTLY, MOORED HIS FLEET UNDER THE GUNS OF THE FORTS AT CAVITE (CA-VEE-TAY), FIVE MILES FROM MANILA, AND TRUSTED THE FORTS AT THE ENTRANCE TO THE BAY TO GUARD AGAINST SURPRISE.

ON THE MORNING OF APRIL 30, THE AMERICAN SQUADRON WAS SIGHTED OFF CAPE BOLINAO, AND BY 4 P. M. HAD REACHED SUBIC BAY, ABOUT FIFTY MILES FROM MANILA. DEWEY SEARCHED THE HARBORS OF THE WEST COAST OF LUZON FOR THE ENEMY WITHOUT SUCCESS.

CONVINCED THAT THE SPANISH FLEET LAY IN MANILA BAY, DEWEY RESOLVED TO RUN PAST THE STRONGLY FORTIFIED ENTRANCE TO THE HARBOR, BRAVE THE DANGEROUS CHANNEL SOWN WITH MINES AND TORPEDOES, AND ATTACK THE ENEMY SHIPS WHERE THEY LAY UNDER THE PROTECTING GUNS OF THEIR LAND BATTERIES.

NAPIER STUDYING EFFECT OF OPINION ON HIGHWAY WORK

With Attorney General George M. Napier studying the recent decision of the state supreme court to form an opinion as to its full effect upon the state highway system, plans to ask a rehearing of the case were under consideration Friday, it was learned at the capitol. The supreme court decision holds the highway department strictly within the 6,300-mile state aid road limit set by the legislature.

Ben Pierce, of Augusta, attorney, who represented Richmond county in the case of Marks against the highway board, on which the decision was rendered, was in Atlanta Friday and, according to a report at the highway board offices, was considering an appeal to the supreme court to rehear the case.

Effects of the decision on the state highway system was one of the principal topics of conversation Friday at the capitol. Attorney General Napier said that it will be several days before he can give an opinion on the decision. The highway board has announced that it will not discuss the decision until it has the attorney general's opinion.

TWO STOWAWAYS ON BYRD'S SHIP WILL GO TO POLE

San Pedro, Cal., October 12.—(AP)—Two venturesome, unidentified young men are going uninvited on the South Pole expedition of Commander Richard E. Byrd.

They are going as stowaways on the whaler C. A. Larsen which sailed from here last Wednesday night with Byrd and his party. This information was received here today by radio from Captain Oscar Nilson, of the ship, who said he found the youths hiding.

The young men, whose names were not ascertained, were expected to continue with the ship for the reason that it is impossible to put them off.

ALASKAN ARRIVES AT CHICAGO WITH 1,200-POUND MOOSE

Chicago, October 12.—(AP)—Considerably peeved at railroads, newspapermen and the land of the tenderfoot, Stephen Melchoir, 79-year-old Alaskan, and a 1,200-pound moose arrived in a baggage car today.

It was the aged miner's first visit to a big city in 35 years. He said he did not expect to come again for at least 35 years more. The moose, which he said was the first to be shipped out of Alaska, is consigned to the Royal Oaks zoo in Detroit.

Mr. Melchoir is in charge of the animal until it gets there and explained that moose are nervous creatures and should not be shunted around railroad yards as they insisted doing with his.

BELIEVE ROAD VICTIM SUPPOSED DEAD VET

Police Think Unconscious Man Suffered Shell Shock and Lost Memory.

Pueblo, Col., October 12.—(AP)—Authorities here have begun investigating the possibility that a man found unconscious besides a road near here last Sunday is Harry Devlin, 33-year-old Toronto, Canada, soldier, reported killed in France in 1916.

The man claimed S. L. Devlin, of Toronto, is his father. A telegram received from Mr. Devlin yesterday said his son was reported killed in France, but that the body never was recovered.

It is believed the former soldier, if he is Devlin, suffered shell-shock and lost his memory, which may have been restored by the blow that rendered him unconscious. He presumably had been beaten and robbed.

The man told a hazy story of having accepted a ride from Denver to Colorado Springs with a motorist about October 2. He said the motorist stopped at a Mexican resort along the road and that was the last he remembered.

Although he said he wore a good suit of clothes and had $500 when he left Denver, the man was attired in ragged clothing when found. Near him was a pair of crutches which he said he had used since the war.

TRAIN DERAILED ON TOUR; HEADS OF ROAD ESCAPE

Wichita, Kans., October 12.—(AP)—A special train carrying J. M. Kurn, president of the St. Louis & San Francisco railway, and a party of Frisco officials on an inspection tour of the lines, was derailed ten miles north of Bentley, Kans., today. No one was injured.

The tender jumped the track and took the cars with it, J. R. Koontz, vice president, in charge of traffic, reported here. The four business cars on the train were those of Mr. Kurn, Mr. Koontz, vice president; J. E. Hutchinson and H. L. Worman, superintendent of motive power.

BRUMBY TO LEAVE CONTROL POST TO HEAD NAVY BOARD

New London, Conn., October 12.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby, commander of the navy control force, who was in charge of rescue and salvage operations of the ill-fated submarine S-4 off Provincetown last December, will relinquish his present command November 6 to become president of the navy board of inspection and survey at Washington. He will be succeeded by Rear Admiral F. B. Upham, at present in command of battleship division No. 3 of the battle fleet, with headquarters aboard the U. S. S. Pennsylvania at San Pedro, Calif.

WILLIAM MURPHEY TO BE HONOR GUEST AT DINNER TONIGHT

William Murphey, of Savannah, president of the Citizens and Southern National bank, will be in Atlanta today for business conferences with officials of his Atlanta offices. Tonight he will be entertained by officers and directors of the local institution at a get-together dinner at the Capital City club.

The dinner is being planned to afford Mr. Murphey a better chance to become acquainted with the personnel of the force here. He only recently was made president of the organization.

W.C.T.U. WARNS OF BOWL

That Is If Contents Is Cider More Than 24 Hours.

Sheridan, Wyo., October 12.—(AP)—The Wyoming Women's Christian Temperance union today adopted a resolution cautioning members not to drink cider after it had stood 24 hours.

EFFORT TO MAKE SENORITAS WEAR LONG SKIRTS LOST

Mexico City, October 12.—(AP)—A member of the chamber of deputies drew up a proposal to oblige senoritas working in government offices to wear long skirts and high collars. Signatures found that only three of the deputies shared his views on the subject.

The author of the proposal contended that because of their scanty attire the young women employees distracted male employees from their work and that it would be for the good of all if the senoritas would be obliged to wear a uniform which would button up to the neck and extend down almost to the ankles.

In a newspaper interview a girl stenographer employed in one of the government offices suggested that in case the senoritas were forced to wear uniforms, the deputies also should wear them. College sweaters and balloon trousers would be a most appropriate garb for the legislators, she opined.

SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE COUNTY DEBT ARGUMENT

Fort Valley, Ga., October 12.—(Special)—Litigation between Houston and Peach counties, involving a debt of approximately $57,000, which is claimed to have been owed by Houston before the county of Peach was created in 1924 has been carried to the Georgia supreme court.

Houston filed suit against Peach, alleging Peach county to be obligated for half of the debt. Peach county demurred to the Houston suit, alleging that the entire debt of the original county of Houston had been wiped out when the 1924 taxes were collected. That collection, made in 1925, approximately amounted to $75,000. Besides wiping out the debt, Peach county claims that $17,000 was left in the treasury.

Judge Malcolm Jones, who heard the case, filed his decision in the lower court, in which he dismissed the action on demurrer of Peach, holding that there now exists no mutual debt, it having been paid with the collection of the 1924 taxes.

The case was then taken to the higher court.

NIGHT CLUB VISITORS GET SERIOUS WARNING

New York Official Says Clubs Are Criminal Hangouts.

New York, October 12.—(AP)—District Attorney Joeb H. Banton today warned prospective night club visitors that many of the clubs are run by persons with criminal records and that they are the rendezvous of criminals.

"Persons who patronize night clubs associate with criminals of the worst type," he said. "The night clubs are hangouts of criminals who watch for women with jewelry and men with money, follow them when they leave and rob them or else blackmail them."

The victims, he said, usually are people from out of town and the police hands are tied because of the victims' refusal to prosecute, in fear of the resulting notoriety.

The district attorney's statement was made in connection with an investigation into the death of Bessie Poole, a former actress, after a visit to the Chez Florence, a mid-town night club. One report is that her death followed a fight at the club, although the physician who attended her said death was due to natural causes.

Chief Assistant District Attorney Pecora said he had obtained information that the Volstead act was violated in the Chez Florence and that he had turned the information over to federal prohibition authorities.

One night club manager, Daniel Ferrisi, of the Don Royal, was held for the grand jury without bail yesterday charged with robbing a patron of his club of $15 in cash and $80 in express money orders.

Morgenstiern Yields To Arrest and Is Free By Giving $15,000 Bail

St. Louis, October 12.—(AP)—Dr. E. F. Morgenstiern, former personnel director of the International Life Insurance company and adviser of Roy C. Toombs, former president of the defunct concern, who has not accounted for $3,500,000 of the firm's assets, surrendered here today and gave $15,000 bond under a joint indictment against him and Toombs.

The indictment charged Dr. Morgenstiern and Toombs with grand larceny, specifying that on December 6, 1927, they appropriated $538,000 worth of "various bonds of various communities and places, the property of the International Life Insurance company."

NEW YORK SEWER CASE NEARS JURY AS DEFENSE RESTS

New York, October 12.—(AP)—The defense rested today in the trial of Maurice E. Connolly, former Queensboro president, and Frederick Seely, former sewer engineer, who are charged with conspiracy to defraud the city through sewer contracts. Court adjourned until Monday when summations will be heard. The case is expected to reach the jury on Tuesday.

GREAT DRUG STORE MERGER IS NEAR

Twenty-eight Atlanta drug stores will be joined in a merger with R. D. Lane & Co., of New York, some time in the near future, it was learned from authoritative sources Saturday. After several months of negotiations and delays occasioned by financing problems, final negotiations are now under way and it is expected that the merger will be completed within the next few days.

Included in the Atlanta stores are two or three local store chains and a number of independent establishments, it is understood.

The Lane company established offices here several months ago and announced at that time that it was looking to a large merger. Simultaneously with the Atlanta negotiations arrangements have been under way to bring stores in Knoxville, Tenn., and Jacksonville, Fla., into the merger. Negotiations in those cities also are now virtually completed, it is learned.

Atlanta will be chosen as southern headquarters for the Lane merger, and in the three southern cities between sixty and seventy stores will be included in the chain.

4 U. S. PRISONERS CUT WAY OUT OF JAIL IN FLORIDA

St. Augustine, Fla., October 12.—(AP)—Authorities here were engaged today in a search for four federal prisoners who escaped from the county jail last night by cutting a hole through the masonry of the first floor.

The jail keepers declined to give the names of the prisoners, but County Judge Louis Victor said he understood that the fugitives were Arthur Mosley, Manuel Music, Harry Ball and Mervin Wilkerson, all held for breaking into the postoffice at Bostwick, Ga.

Reports reaching here said the men had been surrounded in a swamp near Bayard, but there was no official confirmation.

HOOVER BOOSTERS IN SMITH PARADE ARE NOW WISER

Raleigh, N. C., October 12.—(AP)—David Peebles and Harry Seawell, drug clerks, and Hoover supporters, today were sadder but wiser young men than before Governor Alfred E. Smith made his visit to Raleigh.

And all because they attempted to drive a car decorated with their candidate's banners in the Smith parade. A mob of spectators broke ranks at the curb, halted the car, smashed its headlights, wrenched off a door, ripped up the upholstery, slashed a tire and plastered the body with Smith stickers. Seawell and Peebles fled.

CHILDREN OFTEN NEED GLASSES
but THEY do not know it!
Keep a close watch on your children and have their eyes tested often. A slight complication that could perhaps be easily corrected while the child is young may mean a hindrance all through life if neglected. Children seldom know when there is trouble. Mothers and Dads should watch them closely, especially during school days. If your children need glasses, let us fit them with Dockstader glasses. Children do not object to wearing glasses that are comfortable and becoming.
